From Prison to Witness Stand

John Gates, (right), former Daily Worker editor, is the first witness June 9 before the Subversive Activities Control Board in Washington, as the Communist party called on imprisoned and indicted leaders to dispute under oath the government's charge that American Reds take orders from Moscow. Gates is serving a five-year term in prison on a charge of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the U.S. government.

30 Persons Hurt On Excursion Boat

Vessel Crashes Into Pier at 43rd Street on West Side

New York, June 10 (AP)—A crowded excursion boat crashed into a Hudson river pier today, injuring about 30 persons.

Some of those hurt were children. Eleven persons were taken to hospitals.

Police said the boat, the S.S. New Yorker, loaded mostly with tourists, rammed into Pier 83, at the foot of Manhattan's West 43rd street.

Between 300 and 400 people were aboard at the time.

Backing From Berth

Police said the boat was backing out of its berth with its engines reversed when, in an unexplained manner, the engines shifted into forward gear and sent the vessel plowing into the docks.

The captain, Rubin D. Drew, refused to give police information on the accident, saying he would tell the coast guard how it happened, police said.

Many of the adults were teachers, some were parents. The children were mostly below junior high school age.

Hurled to Deck

They said crew members shouted "get to the rear" just before the crash. The impact hurled many to the deck, or against rails and rigging.

Some of the injured were said to have suffered broken bones and cuts. One woman was knocked unconscious. Ambulances took seven victims to St. Clare's Hospital and four to Roosevelt Hospital.

Di Micco Sedan Found Wrecked, Abandoned

A 1941 black sedan, taken from the driveway of Michael Di Micco, 102 Bruyn avenue, was found abandoned after it struck a tree at O'Neil street and Bruyn avenue late Monday night, police said today.

Police said that a lady in the vicinity reported seeing a man run away after the collision. She described him, police said, as a middle-aged man wearing a blue shirt, light pants and no hat. Di Micco was notified and picked the car up, police said. The right front fender and headlight were reported to have been damaged.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The position of the treasury June 6: Net budget receipts $178,124,734.99. Budget expenditures $278,710,785.10. Cash balance $4,951,500,888.50. Custom receipts for month $10,767,375.38. Budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $52,983,459,153.12. Budget expenditures fiscal year $60,519,220,252.54. Budget deficit $7,535,761,099.42. President Would Get Power Until Dispute Is Settled

Washington, June 10 (AP)—President Truman asked Congress today to enact legislation quickly allowing the government to take over the nation's steel plants and operate them until the union-management dispute is settled.

The President made his request in a personal address to a joint Senate-House session hastily summoned after the collapse last night of steel peace negotiations.

Truman ruled out any use of the Taft-Hartley Law to end the eight-day-old nationwide strike of 650,000 CIO United Steelworkers.

He said it would be "unwise, unfair and quite possibly ineffective" to pass a law allowing him to seek an injunction without first appointing a board of inquiry and waiting for its report, as required by the Taft-Hartley Act.

Would Restore Output

The government seizure of the mills under congressional authority, Truman declared, would "restore full scale steel production, provide fair treatment for all concerned, and maintain incentives for both parties to reach agreement on the disputed issue through collective barganing."

Truman seized the mills last April, acting under what he termed the inherent powers of his office. But the steel industry fought back in the courts and the seizure was upset by a historic Supreme Court ruling on Monday of last week that Truman lacked such inherent power.

Immediately after the court decision, the steel workers walked out.

Pleading now for Congress to give him this power, Truman told the legislators in solemn words that full scale production of steel is absolutely necessary to the western rearmament program. He added:

Is Vital Element

"The issue of peace or war hangs in the balance, and steel is a vital element in the outcome."

Alluding then to the great court fight over his seizure powers, Truman said he believed he was only living up to his oath of office when he ordered seizure of the steel plants last April 8.

He continued:

"Now a majority of the Supreme Court have declared that I cannot take the action I believe necessary. But they have said very clearly that the Congress can.

"Whatever may have been the intention of the court's majority in setting limits on the President's powers, there can be no question of their view that the Congress can enact legislation to avoid a crippling work stoppage in the steel industry * * *."

"The issue is squarely up to the Congress. I hope the Congress will meet it by enacting fair and effective legislation."

Truman said the seizure law he

Eisenhower Has Hourly GOP Talks

General Will Make Bid for Southern Votes at Sessions—Says War Makes Administrators

Woos Three States

Will Have Session With Alabama, N. Carolina, Georgia Delegates

New York, June 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower makes a face-to-face bid today for a southern bloc of Republican convention votes.

Continuing his timetable conferences with GOP delegates, he meets groups from Alabama, Georgia and North Carolina—every hour on the hour during the afternoon.

Yesterday he met generally pro-Eisenhower delegates from New Hampshire, Connecticut, and Massachusetts. He also had a session with a Delaware delegation of still doubtful leanings.

Out of these talks came Eisenhower's reported answer to the view that a "military mind" isn't suited for the White House. He was quoted as saying modern war makes its leaders all-around administrators, economists and diplomats.

Taft Claims Made

Thus far, much of the south is claimed for Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. In 11 southern states—outside the southwest—Taft claims 97 convention votes to 21 for Eisenhower.

But in these same 11 states there are 55 uncommitted votes, a coveted plum in next month's Chicago convention.

In the three states Eisenhower woos today, the lineup according to The Associated Press tabulation of delegates is:

Alabama—Nine for Taft, four for Eisenhower, one uncommitted.

Georgia—All 17 uncommitted.

North Carolina—thirteen for Taft, seven for Eisenhower and six uncommitted.

Must Know Great Deal

It was Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce, former Connecticut congress woman, who said yesterday that Eisenhower "explained that the techniques of war have changed and that the leader in a modern war must know a great deal, particularly about economics and diplomacy and other questions which in the past have not been in a military man's purview."

In this remark, Eisenhower apparently had in mind criticism from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, a Taft supporter, who has warned against a military group running the nation.

Mrs. Luce said Eisenhower recalled that another general's name was placed in nomination at the 1948 GOP convention. The general was MacArthur, but Eisenhower was not quoted as identifying him specifically.

Mrs. Luce added that Eisen-

Boatner delivered an ultimatum to the colonel in person at compound 74, across the road from compound 76, ordering Lee Hak Koo to prepare the POW's in it to move out. Koo went into compound 76, but disregarded Boatner's orders. Then defiant Reds manned trenches and a bloody battle ensued with U.S. paratroopers.

Acheson Asks Swift Peace Pact Okay Plus Arms Pledge

Secretary of State Gives Importance of Act Setting Up Army

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson today urged the Senate to give quick approval to the German peace contract plus a guarantee to help defend western Germany in the event of Communist aggression.

The secretary told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

"These agreements greatly advance all that we have been trying to do since the end of the war to build a strength and unity among the free nations."

As the administration's lead-off witness in hearings on the pacts, Acheson stressed the "great importance of early ratification." He said, too, he was confident other western European governments would follow suit if this were done.

It has been speculated widely that France—and possibly other North Atlantic Treaty nations—would be cool to putting West Germany, a bitter enemy eight years ago, in a military alliance to which France was a party.

City Procures New Dump In Devil's Lake Sector

Furious Storm Hits Metropolitan Area With Three Deaths

Planes Wrecked by Gale Which Also Snarls Utility Wires in Wide Area

New York, June 10 (AP)—Wrecked planes, tangled utility wires and battered landscapes lay today in the wake of a furious wind and rain storm that swooped across the metropolitan area.

From isolated sections of Long Island across the city suburbs and into congested Manhattan, workmen toiled to repair the scattered damage.

The powerful gale, tearing up a skyful of dust and followed by a wind-driven rain, hit the area with lightning-like suddenness yesterday afternoon, plunging the city into howling darkness for a half hour.

Three deaths, and extensive property damage estimated unofficially at $2,000,000 in the outlying Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk, alone, were attributed to the storm.

30,000 Homes Lack Power

In those two counties, 30,000 homes still were without electric power today. Service in some 70,000 others had been restored, and the rest were expected to have lights by tonight.

Dozens of planes were damaged at Long Island airports. Twenty-seven planes were reported completely demolished at Zahn's Airport in North Amityville. One light plane was lifted skyward 125 feet, swept over a hangar and deposited in back yard.

The gale touched off a $40,000 fire that wrecked a home in Roslyn Heights, and another $45,000 blaze in a dairy bottling plant in Elwood.

Winds Reach 84 Miles

Winds with gusts up to 84 miles an hour blew a 225-pound man off a four-story Manhattan roof to his death, uprooted trees, tore down power lines and ripped off a main-floor door of the Empire State Building.

Seven planes on the ground at La Guardia Field were damaged.

In Nassau county, the Long Island Lighting Company reported that fallen wires knocked out 90 per cent of its electrical service in an area of 800,000 population. Other power failures were reported in northern New Jersey.

A number of injuries also were reported in the area.

Sheets of rain flooded streets in many parts of the metropolitan area. A school in Mineola, was temporarily isolated by water-filled streets; and firemen had to carry children to dry ground.

Thermometer Drops

The storm came suddenly early in the afternoon just after record high temperatures for the year were registered. In New York,

Cook Not Executive? Try Giving Him Order

London, June 10 (AP)—Douglas H. Boggis-Rolph, an attorney, hired a cook without getting permission from the Ministry of Labor. Under ministry regulations cooks' jobs are "controlled" and such permission is necessary.

Boggis-Rolph studied the regulations. He found that executive positions are not controlled. He informed ministry officials his cook is an executive and if they don't believe him why don't they try to go into his kitchen and give the cook some orders?

Boggis-Rolph said he is prepared to argue the matter in any of her majesty's courts. The ministry has given no indication of accepting his challenge.

Anglo Troops Take Away Barbed Wire From Radio Berlin

Russians Loosen Squeeze on Western Part of City; Citizens Disappointed

Berlin, June 10 (AP)—British troops removed their barbed wire barricades from Russia's radio Berlin headquarters early today, ending a dramatic seven-day siege which won several concessions from the Soviets.

The British said they lifted the blockade on the station inside their zone because it had served its purpose. Under its pressure, the Russians loosened their squeeze on West Berlin to the extent of yielding several border areas they had seized.

West Berliners were disappointed. The Communists made it clear they would claim a victory for themselves and not for the British.

Allied officials took the view the siege, if continued too long, might have boomeranged. They felt the allied-occupied part of this Communist-surrounded city is too vulnerable to invite heavy reprisals for slight gains.

Must Show Moderation

"We must show moderation as well as firmness so as not to bring down further difficulties on Berlin's head," one official commented.

The Communists still held West Berlin in a potential strangle grip that could be turned any time into a new blockade. Zonal borders between East and West Germany, and even street boundaries between East and West Berlin, have been turned into fortified frontiers like those between warring nations.

The Reds have cut all but four of Berlin's highway lines to the west. Allied military patrols still were barred from the single allied road passageway through the Russian zone.

Late Bulletin

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today was named keynoter for the Republican National Convention opening here July 7.

Residents of Valley and Sterling Sts. Are Relieved of 'Hazards'

Rubbish and combustible materials will no longer be deposited in the Sterling street dump, it was announced today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk.

He said that he had obtained permission to use an area located on First avenue "near Devil's Lake."

The mayor's action followed a three-hour roadblock at the dump Monday morning by residents of the neighborhood and a protest meeting last night at the home of Edmund V. Demski, 72 Pine Grove avenue.

Newkirk said that he was "happy to announce" that arrangements had been made "to close the Sterling street and Valley street dump by securing another area to take care of rubbish and combustible materials. Through the cooperation of Terry Brothers and David Terry, I have been able to secure permission to use property owned by them for city dump purposes.

"The area that will be used for city dump purposes is within the city limits, located on First avenue near what is commonly known as Devil's Lake."

Ready Tomorrow

Newkirk asked that "until the time that the necessary barriers can be erected at the Valley street and Sterling street dump, all people discontinue dumping of rubbish or combustible material in this area. The superintendent of the board of public works, Ernest Steuding, is making the necessary arrangements today in order that we may be able to use the new

Reds' Plot To Get Isle Uncovered

Plan Called for Attack Upon UN Garrison, Seizure of Weapons by Communists

Reds Spear Pals

Some Captives Killed by Mates on Island, Is Report

Koje Island, Korea, June 10 (AP)—Tough U. S. paratroopers today cracked Communist prisoner of war rebellion in a rip-snorting 2½ hour battle that made a shambles of notorious compound 76 and uncovered a prisoner plot to seize the island.

Thirty-one prisoners were killed and 139 wounded in the bloody fighting. Autopsies showed that 12 prisoners were killed by their fellow Reds with crude spears.

One American was killed and 14 were wounded. The slain American had been speared to death and not killed by a concussion grenade as first reported. Only one American was seriously wounded. Seven returned to duty and the others will go back in a few days.

The fight broke out when the POWs disobeyed orders to move peaceably into new, smaller enclosures of about 500 each.

Master Plan Found

U. S. Army intelligence officers found a master plan in 76 to liberate all 80,000 Communist prisoners held on Koje. It called for the Reds to seize the island and its UN garrison and turn its weapons against any force from the mainland. Further details were withheld.

Not a shot was fired in the barbed wire encircled battlefield.

The 750 Americans of the "Angels from Hell" combat team used concussion grenades, bayonets, tear gas and fists to subdue the rebellious 6,400 North Koreans. The Reds were armed with spears, knives, rocks and firebombs.

Surrendering prisoners were hustled off to the new enclosures.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, the Koje commander, had given the Reds a chance to move to the new quarters peacefully.

Die-hard Communist leaders chose to fight.

Uses Force on Them

Boatner met the resistance with force in his campaign to gain uncontested control over the prison pens.

The wild, swirling battle was witnessed by prisoners of two other unruly compounds—78 and 77.

Shortly after the fight ended Boatner told prisoners in 78 to get ready to be moved—or else. The prisoners obeyed meekly.

And leaders in Compound 77 sent word that they would be ready to move on Boatner's command. They will be moved tomorrow.

Boatner was jubilant over the way the paratroopers from the 187th Airborne Regimental combat team quelled the Reds. He said:

"The discipline of the troops was superb. I have an official report that not one shot was fired in compound 76. We captured the exact plan of resistance."

He referred to the map and papers found inside 76.

Boatner personally had ordered North Korean Col. Lee Hak Woo, a Compound 76 leader, to assemble the POWs for moving. Lee refused.

Prisoners Are Warned

At 5:45 a. m. loudspeakers blared to the compound:

"In 15 minutes you will be moved into newly constructed compounds * * *. If you move quietly you will not be hurt. If you resist you do so at your own peril."

The Communists ducked into freshly dug trenches and waited.

Fifteen minutes later the paratroopers attacked. They stormed through the barbed wire fences from several directions.

Twenty minutes after the fighting started Red Colonel Lee was captured.

Rugged paratroopers grabbed him by the seat of the pants and walked him "frogg legged"—on hands and knees—out of the compound. Tears streamed down from his face. He was clamped in solitary confinement.

Tents flamed and wooden build-

Eisenhower Aides Lack Man To Plug as GOP Keynoter

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower lacked a candidate today to oppose the choice of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Republican convention keynoter.

Despite hurried hotel room conferences, backers of Eisenhower's bid for the GOP presidental nomination could not agree on any opposition nominee.

This left it up to the convention arrangements committee (meeting 10 a. m. EST) to accept a proposal by G. Mason Owlett, Pennsylvania national committeeman, or begin its own search for a convention rallying speaker.

The convention opens in Chicago on July 7.

Owlett, who has not taken sides publicly in the battle between Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the presidental nomination, told reporters he intends to nominate MacArthur for the major convention role.

Owlett was reported to have rejected a protest by Herbert Brownell Jr., one of the field agents for Eisenhower, that it would be unfair for the committee to name as keynoter a man who has publicly supported Taft in the pre-convention campaign.

Harry Darby, Kansas national committeeman and Eisenhower backer, told reporters that he has no particular interest in who is chosen for the keynoter's job. He

Planes Wrecked by Gale Which Also Snarls Utility Wires in Wide Area

New York, June 10 (AP)—Wrecked planes, tangled utility wires and battered landscapes lay today in the wake of a furious wind and rain storm that swooped across the metropolitan area.

From isolated sections of Long Island across the city suburbs and into congested Manhattan, workmen toiled to repair the scattered damage.

The powerful gale, tearing up a skyful of dust and followed by a wind-driven rain, hit the area with lightning-like suddenness yesterday afternoon, plunging the city into howling darkness for a half hour.

Three deaths, and extensive property damage estimated unofficially at $2,000,000 in the outlying Long Island counties of Nassau and Suffolk, alone, were attributed to the storm.

30,000 Homes Lack Power

In those two counties, 30,000 homes still were without electric power today. Service in some 70,000 others had been restored, and the rest were expected to have lights by tonight.

Dozens of planes were damaged at Long Island airports. Twenty-seven planes were reported completely demolished at Zahn's Airport in North Amityville. One light plane was lifted skyward 125 feet, swept over a hangar and deposited in back yard.

The gale touched off a $40,000 fire that wrecked a home in Roslyn Heights, and another $45,000 blaze in a dairy bottling plant in Elwood.

Winds Reach 84 Miles

Winds with gusts up to 84 miles an hour blew a 225-pound man off a four-story Manhattan roof to his death, uprooted trees, tore down power lines and ripped off a main-floor door of the Empire State Building.

Seven planes on the ground at La Guardia Field were damaged.

In Nassau county, the Long Island Lighting Company reported that fallen wires knocked out 90 per cent of its electrical service in an area of 800,000 population. Other power failures were reported in northern New Jersey.

A number of injuries also were reported in the area.

Sheets of rain flooded streets in many parts of the metropolitan area. A school in Mineola, was temporarily isolated by water-filled streets; and firemen had to carry children to dry ground.

Thermometer Drops

The storm came suddenly early in the afternoon just after record high temperatures for the year were registered. In New York,

Cook Not Executive? Try Giving Him Order

London, June 10 (AP)—Douglas H. Boggis-Rolph, an attorney, hired a cook without getting permission from the Ministry of Labor. Under ministry regulations cooks' jobs are "controlled" and such permission is necessary.

Boggis-Rolph studied the regulations. He found that executive positions are not controlled. He informed ministry officials his cook is an executive and if they don't believe him why don't they try to go into his kitchen and give the cook some orders?

Boggis-Rolph said he is prepared to argue the matter in any of her majesty's courts. The ministry has given no indication of accepting his challenge.

Anglo Troops Take Away Barbed Wire From Radio Berlin

Russians Loosen Squeeze on Western Part of City; Citizens Disappointed

Berlin, June 10 (AP)—British troops removed their barbed wire barricades from Russia's radio Berlin headquarters early today, ending a dramatic seven-day siege which won several concessions from the Soviets.

The British said they lifted the blockade on the station inside their zone because it had served its purpose. Under its pressure, the Russians loosened their squeeze on West Berlin to the extent of yielding several border areas they had seized.

West Berliners were disappointed. The Communists made it clear they would claim a victory for themselves and not for the British.

Allied officials took the view the siege, if continued too long, might have boomeranged. They felt the allied-occupied part of this Communist-surrounded city is too vulnerable to invite heavy reprisals for slight gains.

Must Show Moderation

"We must show moderation as well as firmness so as not to bring down further difficulties on Berlin's head," one official commented.

The Communists still held West Berlin in a potential strangle grip that could be turned any time into a new blockade. Zonal borders between East and West Germany, and even street boundaries between East and West Berlin, have been turned into fortified frontiers like those between warring nations.

The Reds have cut all but four of Berlin's highway lines to the west. Allied military patrols still were barred from the single allied road passageway through the Russian zone.

Late Bulletin

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur today was named keynoter for the Republican National Convention opening here July 7.

Residents of Valley and Sterling Sts. Are Relieved of 'Hazards'

Rubbish and combustible materials will no longer be deposited in the Sterling street dump, it was announced today by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk.

He said that he had obtained permission to use an area located on First avenue "near Devil's Lake."

The mayor's action followed a three-hour roadblock at the dump Monday morning by residents of the neighborhood and a protest meeting last night at the home of Edmund V. Demski, 72 Pine Grove avenue.

Newkirk said that he was "happy to announce" that arrangements had been made "to close the Sterling street and Valley street dump by securing another area to take care of rubbish and combustible materials. Through the cooperation of Terry Brothers and David Terry, I have been able to secure permission to use property owned by them for city dump purposes.

"The area that will be used for city dump purposes is within the city limits, located on First avenue near what is commonly known as Devil's Lake."

Ready Tomorrow

Newkirk asked that "until the time that the necessary barriers can be erected at the Valley street and Sterling street dump, all people discontinue dumping of rubbish or combustible material in this area. The superintendent of the board of public works, Ernest Steuding, is making the necessary arrangements today in order that we may be able to use the new

Reds' Plot To Get Isle Uncovered

Plan Called for Attack Upon UN Garrison, Seizure of Weapons by Communists

Reds Spear Pals

Some Captives Killed by Mates on Island, Is Report

Koje Island, Korea, June 10 (AP)—Tough U. S. paratroopers today cracked Communist prisoner of war rebellion in a rip-snorting 2½ hour battle that made a shambles of notorious compound 76 and uncovered a prisoner plot to seize the island.

Thirty-one prisoners were killed and 139 wounded in the bloody fighting. Autopsies showed that 12 prisoners were killed by their fellow Reds with crude spears.

One American was killed and 14 were wounded. The slain American had been speared to death and not killed by a concussion grenade as first reported. Only one American was seriously wounded. Seven returned to duty and the others will go back in a few days.

The fight broke out when the POWs disobeyed orders to move peaceably into new, smaller enclosures of about 500 each.

Master Plan Found

U. S. Army intelligence officers found a master plan in 76 to liberate all 80,000 Communist prisoners held on Koje. It called for the Reds to seize the island and its UN garrison and turn its weapons against any force from the mainland. Further details were withheld.

Not a shot was fired in the barbed wire encircled battlefield.

The 750 Americans of the "Angels from Hell" combat team used concussion grenades, bayonets, tear gas and fists to subdue the rebellious 6,400 North Koreans. The Reds were armed with spears, knives, rocks and firebombs.

Surrendering prisoners were hustled off to the new enclosures.

Brig. Gen. Haydon L. Boatner, the Koje commander, had given the Reds a chance to move to the new quarters peacefully.

Die-hard Communist leaders chose to fight.

Uses Force on Them

Boatner met the resistance with force in his campaign to gain uncontested control over the prison pens.

The wild, swirling battle was witnessed by prisoners of two other unruly compounds—78 and 77.

Shortly after the fight ended Boatner told prisoners in 78 to get ready to be moved—or else. The prisoners obeyed meekly.

And leaders in Compound 77 sent word that they would be ready to move on Boatner's command. They will be moved tomorrow.

Boatner was jubilant over the way the paratroopers from the 187th Airborne Regimental combat team quelled the Reds. He said:

"The discipline of the troops was superb. I have an official report that not one shot was fired in compound 76. We captured the exact plan of resistance."

He referred to the map and papers found inside 76.

Boatner personally had ordered North Korean Col. Lee Hak Woo, a Compound 76 leader, to assemble the POWs for moving. Lee refused.

Prisoners Are Warned

At 5:45 a. m. loudspeakers blared to the compound:

"In 15 minutes you will be moved into newly constructed compounds * * *. If you move quietly you will not be hurt. If you resist you do so at your own peril."

The Communists ducked into freshly dug trenches and waited.

Fifteen minutes later the paratroopers attacked. They stormed through the barbed wire fences from several directions.

Twenty minutes after the fighting started Red Colonel Lee was captured.

Rugged paratroopers grabbed him by the seat of the pants and walked him "frogg legged"—on hands and knees—out of the compound. Tears streamed down from his face. He was clamped in solitary confinement.

Tents flamed and wooden build-

Eisenhower Aides Lack Man To Plug as GOP Keynoter

Chicago, June 10 (AP)—Supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower lacked a candidate today to oppose the choice of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Republican convention keynoter.

Despite hurried hotel room conferences, backers of Eisenhower's bid for the GOP presidental nomination could not agree on any opposition nominee.

This left it up to the convention arrangements committee (meeting 10 a. m. EST) to accept a proposal by G. Mason Owlett, Pennsylvania national committeeman, or begin its own search for a convention rallying speaker.

The convention opens in Chicago on July 7.

Owlett, who has not taken sides publicly in the battle between Eisenhower and Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the presidental nomination, told reporters he intends to nominate MacArthur for the major convention role.

Owlett was reported to have rejected a protest by Herbert Brownell Jr., one of the field agents for Eisenhower, that it would be unfair for the committee to name as keynoter a man who has publicly supported Taft in the pre-convention campaign.

Harry Darby, Kansas national committeeman and Eisenhower backer, told reporters that he has no particular interest in who is chosen for the keynoter's job. He

Walkie-Lookie TV

New York (AP) — The political conventions at Chicago this summer are expected to afford a job for a new television device. It's a "walkie-lookie," next step up from the walkie-talkie. Weighing only 46 pounds it is compact enough for one man to carry around and operate, much as he would an ordinary camera. The pictures being taken would be fed into the regular TV channels for relay.

Red Terror Continues

Kuala Lumpur (AP) — The leading British rubber planting body in Malaya declares that despite countrywide resettlement of squatters in areas free of Communist terrorists, there is no improvement in the situation. The United Planting Association of Malaya, in its report for 1951, said planters still lived in continual danger and could not relax security precautions.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 10 (AP)—The collapse of the steel strike talks knocked the stock market down today.

Steel and railroad shares were hardest hit. The remainder of the market, although generally lower, showed some signs of resistance to the fall.

Losses ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points at the lowest, with the greatest decline in steels and rails. Gains were scattered and on the small side.

Selling never was urgent, and the total volume of trading was if anything at a little lower rate than yesterday's total of 1,270,000 shares for the entire day.

In the mixed to lower classification were motors, rubbers, utilities, merchandising shares, farm implements, aircrafts, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, and oils. The building materials held to small gains.

Good Taste Today

A PROBABLY INNOCENT OFFENDER

A most unpleasant subject is described as follows: "A business associate of mine has the habit of spraying everyone in the face whenever he talks to them. Inasmuch as a good deal of my work involves coming in close contact with him, I am frequently sprayed in the face—a most unpleasant experience. I am completely at a loss to know how to handle this situation without offending him, yet I cannot go on enduring this unsanitary habit much longer. Can you offer a solution of this problem?"

Unhappily, I know of nothing to suggest except trying to keep out of range.

Leaving Food On Plate

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please print in your column the rule for leaving a small amount of food on the plate? I'm trying to teach my children good table manners and we've had some disagreement on this point. I know that during World War 2 when food was scarce, it was considered proper to eat all the food on one's plate, but does that same rule apply today?

Answer: Leaving food on your plate is not good manners—and never was because it not only shows lack of appreciation of your hostess' food, but is also wanton waste.

Courtesy Must Be Shown Her

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married soon. Since her fiance has no brother, he has asked a cousin of his to be best man. This cousin is engaged to be married and we would like to know if it is necessary to ask his fiancee to be a bridesmaid. My daughter has never met the girl. If not necessary to ask her to take part in the wedding, must she be invited to the reception and asked to sit at the bridal table?

Answer: It is not at all necessary to invite her to be bridesmaid nor is it necessary to invite her to sit at the bridal table. She must, of course, be invited to the wedding itself and a certain amount of pains should be taken to be sure that she is not left alone during the times that he is occupied by his duties.

Why not give yourself an etiquette test? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, she has prepared a leaflet E-18, which includes questions and answers interesting to everyone. WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Group Show Opens At Art Gallery

Woodstock, June 10—There is refreshing variety in the first group show of paintings of the season, which opened at the Woodstock Art Gallery last Saturdap afternoon with a reception. A non-jury show, composed of paintings by active members of the Woodstock Artists Association, the exhibition appears to reflect an optimistic, out-going trend. Most of the painters have turned their attention to joyous, or peaceful, or absorbing nature subjects, or figures, with a marked absence of introspective brooding.

In Herman Oxhandler's The Piper, there is subtle color and harmonious forms, while Daniel Revzan's Mountain Tree though somber in values is beautifully solid, carrying the impressive conviction of a forest giant. There is youthful appeal in Boyer Gonzales' Fishermen, and a world of music in Adrian Siegel's enchanting abstract, Rhythms. Betty Baumon has brought a new approach to her scintillating Woodstock Landscape, quietly affirmative as constrasted to the gaiety and sparkle of Phoebe Towbin's St. Thomas Harbor, Virgin Islands.

A nostalgic repose is inherent in Peggy Maguire's Mme. Artaud, and an arresting play of light in the deftly handled Warriors by Mary Early. Florine Rensie has sought a familiar corner for her unique angle of Radio City, and there is an individual charm in William S. Eisner's winter view of The Farm.

Using specific motifs, Arnold Blanch has arrived at the intriguing Islands, and Cecile Forman her decorative Blue Trees.

Sculpture on Display

Several small pieces of sculpture are also on view in the center of the gallery, including Louis Steckler's powerful sandstone head which bids immediate attention.

A memorial show of the photographs by the late Joy Griffin West, whose promising career was concluded by her untimely passing, is on view in the front gallery. Both black and white and colored shots of the same subjects lend added interest to her unique experiments. A series of dance poses, with the photographer herself as the subject, are a veritable ballet of black-clad figures and abstract forms, with mobiles and buildings part of the design. Through the quick eye of her camera she has caught the fleeting moments, ice-clad statuary, a puppy chewing a shoe, a half-shadowed face.

The summer season has begun at the Woodstock Art Gallery, a suitable preface with this group show, to a lively round of exhibitions.

Children's Production Success for Graduates

Woodstock, June 10 — The Grimm's Fairy Tale, The Seven Ravens, which was presented by the Woodstock school children last Friday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the party in honor of the graduating class, was a financial as well as artistic success. According to the officers of the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association, which sponsored the production, sufficient funds were derived from the show to not only cover the expenses of the graduating class party, but to open a savings account in the Woodstock branch of the Bank of Orange County.

Enthusiasm is running high among the Woodstock School student body, with members of the cast and those who would like to be in a new play, urging P-TA members to plan another production. Mrs. William Stifler who directed the play, and Mrs. Carl Hubbell, who made the dramatic adaptation hope for another production when it can be arranged. After the Friday night performance members of the P-TA treated the cast and crew to an ice cream party.

Jerominek to Direct Playhouse Art Show

Woodstock, June 10—A group of exhibitions of paintings in the lobby of the Woodstock Playhouse will be under the direction of Jerry Jerominek, the first to open with the theatre season, Friday, June 27, with the work of Frances Stein, to be on view for two weeks.

The second exhibition will be a group show of selected paintings from the Rudolph Gallery under the personal supervision of Rudolph Fiolic, of the gallery. Also included in the series will be a one-man show of paintings by John Pike, the dates to be announced later.

Village Notes

Woodstock, June 10 — Mrs. Charles Bridgham and daughter Natalie of Seattle, Wash., and Miss Madeline Platt of Toronto visited Mrs. Ethel Adams while en route to New York and Washington. Walkie-Lookie TV

New York (AP) — The political conventions at Chicago this summer are expected to afford a job for a new television device. It's a "walkie-lookie," next step up from the walkie-talkie. Weighing only 46 pounds it is compact enough for one man to carry around and operate, much as he would an ordinary camera. The pictures being taken would be fed into the regular TV channels for relay.

Red Terror Continues

Kuala Lumpur (AP) — The leading British rubber planting body in Malaya declares that despite countrywide resettlement of squatters in areas free of Communist terrorists, there is no improvement in the situation. The United Planting Association of Malaya, in its report for 1951, said planters still lived in continual danger and could not relax security precautions.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 10 (AP)—The collapse of the steel strike talks knocked the stock market down today.

Steel and railroad shares were hardest hit. The remainder of the market, although generally lower, showed some signs of resistance to the fall.

Losses ran from fractions to between 1 and 2 points at the lowest, with the greatest decline in steels and rails. Gains were scattered and on the small side.

Selling never was urgent, and the total volume of trading was if anything at a little lower rate than yesterday's total of 1,270,000 shares for the entire day.

In the mixed to lower classification were motors, rubbers, utilities, merchandising shares, farm implements, aircrafts, non-ferrous metals, chemicals, and oils. The building materials held to small gains.

Good Taste Today

by Emily Post

(Author of 'Etiquette,' 'Children Are People,' etc.)

A PROBABLY INNOCENT OFFENDER

A most unpleasant subject is described as follows: "A business associate of mine has the habit of spraying everyone in the face whenever he talks to them. Inasmuch as a good deal of my work involves coming in close contact with him, I am frequently sprayed in the face—a most unpleasant experience. I am completely at a loss to know how to handle this situation without offending him, yet I cannot go on enduring this unsanitary habit much longer. Can you offer a solution of this problem?"

Unhappily, I know of nothing to suggest except trying to keep out of range.

Leaving Food On Plate

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please print in your column the rule for leaving a small amount of food on the plate? I'm trying to teach my children good table manners and we've had some disagreement on this point. I know that during World War 2 when food was scarce, it was considered proper to eat all the food on one's plate, but does that same rule apply today?

Answer: Leaving food on your plate is not good manners—and never was because it not only shows lack of appreciation of your hostess' food, but is also wanton waste.

Courtesy Must Be Shown Her

Dear Mrs. Post: My daughter is going to be married soon. Since her fiance has no brother, he has asked a cousin of his to be best man. This cousin is engaged to be married and we would like to know if it is necessary to ask his fiancee to be a bridesmaid. My daughter has never met the girl. If not necessary to ask her to take part in the wedding, must she be invited to the reception and asked to sit at the bridal table?

Answer: It is not at all necessary to invite her to be bridesmaid nor is it necessary to invite her to sit at the bridal table. She must, of course, be invited to the wedding itself and a certain amount of pains should be taken to be sure that she is not left alone during the times that he is occupied by his duties.

Why not give yourself an etiquette test? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, she has prepared a leaflet E-18, which includes questions and answers interesting to everyone. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

WOODSTOCK NEWS

By RICHARD E. THIBAUT, Jr.

Group Show Opens At Art Gallery

Woodstock, June 10—There is refreshing variety in the first group show of paintings of the season, which opened at the Woodstock Art Gallery last Saturdap afternoon with a reception. A non-jury show, composed of paintings by active members of the Woodstock Artists Association, the exhibition appears to reflect an optimistic, out-going trend. Most of the painters have turned their attention to joyous, or peaceful, or absorbing nature subjects, or figures, with a marked absence of introspective brooding.

In Herman Oxhandler's The Piper, there is subtle color and harmonious forms, while Daniel Revzan's Mountain Tree though somber in values is beautifully solid, carrying the impressive conviction of a forest giant. There is youthful appeal in Boyer Gonzales' Fishermen, and a world of music in Adrian Siegel's enchanting abstract, Rhythms. Betty Baumon has brought a new approach to her scintillating Woodstock Landscape, quietly affirmative as constrasted to the gaiety and sparkle of Phoebe Towbin's St. Thomas Harbor, Virgin Islands.

A nostalgic repose is inherent in Peggy Maguire's Mme. Artaud, and an arresting play of light in the deftly handled Warriors by Mary Early. Florine Rensie has sought a familiar corner for her unique angle of Radio City, and there is an individual charm in William S. Eisner's winter view of The Farm.

Using specific motifs, Arnold Blanch has arrived at the intriguing Islands, and Cecile Forman her decorative Blue Trees.

Sculpture on Display

Several small pieces of sculpture are also on view in the center of the gallery, including Louis Steckler's powerful sandstone head which bids immediate attention.

A memorial show of the photographs by the late Joy Griffin West, whose promising career was concluded by her untimely passing, is on view in the front gallery. Both black and white and colored shots of the same subjects lend added interest to her unique experiments. A series of dance poses, with the photographer herself as the subject, are a veritable ballet of black-clad figures and abstract forms, with mobiles and buildings part of the design. Through the quick eye of her camera she has caught the fleeting moments, ice-clad statuary, a puppy chewing a shoe, a half-shadowed face.

The summer season has begun at the Woodstock Art Gallery, a suitable preface with this group show, to a lively round of exhibitions.

Children's Production Success for Graduates

Woodstock, June 10 — The Grimm's Fairy Tale, The Seven Ravens, which was presented by the Woodstock school children last Friday afternoon and evening for the benefit of the party in honor of the graduating class, was a financial as well as artistic success. According to the officers of the Woodstock Parent-Teacher Association, which sponsored the production, sufficient funds were derived from the show to not only cover the expenses of the graduating class party, but to open a savings account in the Woodstock branch of the Bank of Orange County.

Enthusiasm is running high among the Woodstock School student body, with members of the cast and those who would like to be in a new play, urging P-TA members to plan another production. Mrs. William Stifler who directed the play, and Mrs. Carl Hubbell, who made the dramatic adaptation hope for another production when it can be arranged. After the Friday night performance members of the P-TA treated the cast and crew to an ice cream party.

The second exhibition will be a group show of selected paintings from the Rudolph Gallery under the personal supervision of Rudolph Fiolic, of the gallery. Also included in the series will be a one-man show of paintings by John Pike, the dates to be announced later.

Will Meet at Norwich

Middletown, June 10 (AP)—A committee handling negotiations seeking payment of overdue municipal taxes owned by the bankrupt New York, Ontario and Western Railway will hold its first meeting tomorrow at Norwich. The meeting was announced last night by William Fitzgerald, corporation counsel of Middletown. A hearing on proposals for the sale of the railroad is scheduled before U. S. Judge Edward A. Conger in New York city tomorrow.

Elsworth Grants Cutler Application

Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth has granted an application of George Bernard Cutler to set aside a conviction and sentence imposed in Supreme court in Ulster county in 1933 on the grounds that at the time of the conviction Cutler had not been advised of his right to counsel and was not represented by an attorney. Charles Saccoman appeared by assignment for the petitioner.

Cutler was charged with burglary and unlawful entry, alleged to have been committed on December 11, 1932, at the Kutz place in Gardiner. At the time Cutler resided in New Paltz. Following arraignment before the late Justice Pierce H. Russell, Cutler entered a plea of guilty and on the following day, March 30, 1933, that plea was changed to one of guilty to grand larceny, and a five year sentence as a second offender was imposed. Court records do not show why the plea was changed or that Cutler was represented by counsel. Testimony was offered before Justice Elsworth to the effect that Cutler had not been represented by counsel and had indicated he did not desire counsel but there was no evidence presented as to why the plea was changed the next day or whether counsel was then present.

Cutler was then sentenced to Dannemora prison for a five year term as a second offender. He was later convicted of a third offense and is now at Attica prison serving that sentence.

His application to set aside the 1933 conviction was heard Saturday by Justice Elsworth at special term on return of the writ.

Following introduction of testimony from the court records and other testimony, Justice Elsworth ruled that there was no evidence of Cutler having been informed of his right to counsel and it appeared that Cutler had not been represented by an attorney at the time his plea was entered. He directed the conviction be set aside. Cutler is now in a position to move for correction of sentence for the conviction under which he is now serving time in Attica, he having been sentenced as a third offender. Justice Elsworth directed Cutler be remanded to the custody of Sheriff Schantz for return to Attica.

Assistant District Attorney James Abernethy appeared for The People and Charles Saccoman for the defendant.

Vanderbilt Heiress Files for Divorce

Mexico City, June 10 (AP)—New York heiress Gertrude Vanderbilt Henry Gabaldoni has filed suit for divorce here from her Peruvian husband, Luis Gabaldoni—marking the start of the third round in the couple's two-year marital battle.

The Gabaldonis staged the first two rounds in Peruvian and Argentine courts.

Last year the Supreme Court in Lima, Peru, awarded Mrs. Gabaldoni custody of their two children, Barbara, 6, and Luis Vincent, 2½. Her husband took the children from the country, however, before the court could enforce its ruling.

The New York socialite sued in an Argentine Federal Court in 1950 for a legal separation, charging non-support. That time Gabaldoni escaped to Peru with the children just ahead of the action.

In her petition here yesterday, Mrs. Gabaldoni charged abandonment, misconduct and non-support.

Her 40-year-old husband, member of a well-to-do Peruvian family, said he would contest the suit. Asked about the children, he said, "they are in a safe place."

Mrs. Gabaldoni, 28, is a daughter of Barclay McKee Henry of New York and a niece of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, former U. S. undersecretary of commerce.

Duke Has Birthday

London, June 10 (AP)—Britain's man behind the throne, the Duke of Edinburgh, observed his 31st birthday today with a minimum of fuss. Flags were hoisted on public buildings and artillery fired salutes at Hyde Park and the Tower of London. They were the first royal salutes the duke, husband of Queen Elizabeth 2nd, has ever received. He did not rate such honors until his wife became Queen this year.

Policeman Finds 'Dead' Baby Alive

Tiny, two-and-a-half pound baby girl, born prematurely at six months, is fed in Philadelphia by Nurse Edythe Sobol in hospital after a policeman, who was called to the baby's home, found the child alive in a newspaper-wrapped package. The father of the baby, Thomas Hughes, 22, was sitting at a kitchen table with the package and said a doctor examined the prematurely-born child and pronounced it dead, telling him to call the police. The officer, George Mayne, heard a noise in the package, opened it and found the child alive. (AP Wirephoto).

Mayor of Goshen Resigns His Post

Goshen, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—Mayor Frank H. McBride resigned last night without explanation.

The village board of trustees, to which the resignation was submitted, elected trustee William Farnum to serve the remaining year of McBride's two-year term.

McBride has not been in good health recently. He owns a trucking company which handles large milk cargoes. Before being elected mayor he was a member of the village board of trustees since 1947.

Officials of Goshen do not run with party labels.

Has Flashiest Nest

Los Angeles, June 10 (AP)—The flashiest bird nest in town belongs to a mother sparrow and five fledglings which have settled at the intersection of Western avenue and El Segundo Boulevard. Mama built her nest in the circular "go" section of a traffic signal. The birds don't seem to mind the blinking green light. After all, how many nests have electric lighting? Or electric heating?

Dulles Would Tell Retaliation Plan

Baltimore, June 10 (AP)—John Foster Dulles called upon the United States today to "make clear the conditions under which our retaliatory striking power would be used" against Soviet aggression.

Such a statement of intentions, said the Republican architect of the Japanese peace treaty, "would reassure our friends, who now fear we may recklessly start an atomic war in which they would be the first victims."

It would also, Dulles believes, "effectively deter our enemies, for they would know in advance what to expect and avoid such miscalculations as produced the Korean war and which, if uncertainty continues, could produce a far greater disaster."

Dulles' recommendations were voiced in an address at the 74th commencement exercises at Johns Hopkins University, which conferred upon the statesman an honorary doctor of laws degree.

The university conferred 18 types of degrees on 818 students at the commencement exercises.

Elsworth Grants Cutler Application

Supreme Court Justice Roscoe V. Elsworth has granted an application of George Bernard Cutler to set aside a conviction and sentence imposed in Supreme court in Ulster county in 1933 on the grounds that at the time of the conviction Cutler had not been advised of his right to counsel and was not represented by an attorney. Charles Saccoman appeared by assignment for the petitioner.

Cutler was charged with burglary and unlawful entry, alleged to have been committed on December 11, 1932, at the Kutz place in Gardiner. At the time Cutler resided in New Paltz. Following arraignment before the late Justice Pierce H. Russell, Cutler entered a plea of guilty and on the following day, March 30, 1933, that plea was changed to one of guilty to grand larceny, and a five year sentence as a second offender was imposed. Court records do not show why the plea was changed or that Cutler was represented by counsel. Testimony was offered before Justice Elsworth to the effect that Cutler had not been represented by counsel and had indicated he did not desire counsel but there was no evidence presented as to why the plea was changed the next day or whether counsel was then present.

Cutler was then sentenced to Dannemora prison for a five year term as a second offender. He was later convicted of a third offense and is now at Attica prison serving that sentence.

His application to set aside the 1933 conviction was heard Saturday by Justice Elsworth at special term on return of the writ.

Following introduction of testimony from the court records and other testimony, Justice Elsworth ruled that there was no evidence of Cutler having been informed of his right to counsel and it appeared that Cutler had not been represented by an attorney at the time his plea was entered. He directed the conviction be set aside. Cutler is now in a position to move for correction of sentence for the conviction under which he is now serving time in Attica, he having been sentenced as a third offender. Justice Elsworth directed Cutler be remanded to the custody of Sheriff Schantz for return to Attica.

Assistant District Attorney James Abernethy appeared for The People and Charles Saccoman for the defendant.

Vanderbilt Heiress Files for Divorce

Mexico City, June 10 (AP)—New York heiress Gertrude Vanderbilt Henry Gabaldoni has filed suit for divorce here from her Peruvian husband, Luis Gabaldoni—marking the start of the third round in the couple's two-year marital battle.

The Gabaldonis staged the first two rounds in Peruvian and Argentine courts.

Last year the Supreme Court in Lima, Peru, awarded Mrs. Gabaldoni custody of their two children, Barbara, 6, and Luis Vincent, 2½. Her husband took the children from the country, however, before the court could enforce its ruling.

The New York socialite sued in an Argentine Federal Court in 1950 for a legal separation, charging non-support. That time Gabaldoni escaped to Peru with the children just ahead of the action.

In her petition here yesterday, Mrs. Gabaldoni charged abandonment, misconduct and non-support.

Her 40-year-old husband, member of a well-to-do Peruvian family, said he would contest the suit. Asked about the children, he said, "they are in a safe place."

Mrs. Gabaldoni, 28, is a daughter of Barclay McKee Henry of New York and a niece of Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, former U. S. undersecretary of commerce.

Duke Has Birthday

London, June 10 (AP)—Britain's man behind the throne, the Duke of Edinburgh, observed his 31st birthday today with a minimum of fuss. He did not rate such honors until his wife became Queen this year.

Policeman Finds 'Dead' Baby Alive

Tiny, two-and-a-half pound baby girl, born prematurely at six months, is fed in Philadelphia by Nurse Edythe Sobol in hospital after a policeman, who was called to the baby's home, found the child alive in a newspaper-wrapped package. The father of the baby, Thomas Hughes, 22, was sitting at a kitchen table with the package and said a doctor examined the prematurely-born child and pronounced it dead, telling him to call the police. The officer, George Mayne, heard a noise in the package, opened it and found the child alive. (AP Wirephoto).

LOSING OLD SKILLS

A Norwegian language paper, the Norseman, long published in North Dakota, not long ago was sold to two Norwegian-born newspaper men who decided that henceforth most of it would be printed in English, since the new generations of Norwegian-Americans could no longer understand the old tongue.

It is well to publish American papers in the language of America. The feeling of American news and feature is better and more clearly transmitted in the language of the people who make the news. But there is also a loss. People who come here to live are enthusiastic about the new home and its opportunities. The children go to American schools and wish to be known as Americans. Too often they scorn the old skills — the carving genius of the grandpa the sewing and other handiwork abilities of the grandma. These, they think, are old fashioned, belong to the old world and should be given up for—what? Movies, spectator sports, sour music? They may have values, but only in proportion to the whole of life.

The old world cultures also have worth. The beautiful handiwork, exquisite cooking, the many skills learned patiently through generations of handing down are important assets. People who still use and develop them here are giving richly to America. Americans do not have to choose old or new —we can have both. That's the great value of America—it is made up of all the powers of all who have come here—and of those who were here before we were. Let's keep the good old things and choose the good from among the new. Let's have the best from all.

SEMANTICS AND TREES

What's in a name? Plenty, one Pennsylvania farmer would suggest.

Harassed by careless hunters who were damaging the Chinese chestnut trees in his orchard, this farmer asked the Department of Agriculture what he could do. They advised him to post this notice: "No trespassing: warning, the dangerous castanea mollissima linneaeus abounds in this orchard. Beware!"

It worked. He is no longer disturbed; his trees are safe. The warning simply meant "The Chinese chestnut tree abounds in this orchard."

The moral, if there is one, is that names can be made to mean anything. Put the proper adjectives before it, and the Chinese chestnut tree may be made to seem a horrible menace. It can also be done with human beings and with nations.

The misuse of a name can have terrible results. By abusing the meaning of names, uncontrollable passions may be aroused. Semantics may seem to be merely a technical subject, understood by a few scholars. But in many ways it controls the whole world. Give a dog a bad name and hang him, they used to say. Call a man a bad name today and his life and business can be destroyed.

FATE OF MOST REDS

The ancient Greeks told of Cronus, the chief of the gods, who swallowed his children until Zeus was born. Zeus was saved from this fate by his mother, and lived to rule the heavens.

Communism is much like Cronus. It keeps devouring its leaders one after another. The list of top-notch Russian Reds who were liquidated by their fellows reads like a Bolshevist roll of honor. The same is true of communism in the satellite countries. Czechoslovakia has seen some purges of the foremost Communists. Now Rumania has its turn. Ana Pauker has for some time been No. 2 in the hierarchy, the most prominent woman in the whole Communist world. Now she is demoted to No. 5, and once started on the downward slope, may never stop. She will be lucky to escape with her life, or confinement in a concentration camp.

Why so many purges? The main causes may be the constant rivalry for preferment, and the suspiciousness ingrained in people who expect every other person to be an enemy. The perquisites in money and power that accrue to Communist leaders are so great that they naturally arouse covetousness. Those out of power bear tales against those in. And the very top men naturally believe that no one is trustworthy.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A PERMANENT WPA

I am having a wonderful time reading Paul Hoffman's book "Peace Can Be Won." Paul Hoffman is full of ideas and some of them represent a novel concept of the role of the United States. He is a business man who in recent years has devoted himself to the international side of the New Deal.

Hoffman, who once headed ECA, seems to favor a permanent international WPA, a giving, provisioning agency by which the United States takes care of its dependents. In this work, he has been associated with Averell Harriman, who aspires to the Presidency. One of Hoffman's plans is to give to the head of that agency cabinet rank—which makes it not a temporary but a permanent agency. This is what he says:

". . . I should like to recommend most urgently to the American people and to Congress that:

"An Overseas Economic Administration be formed to administer all aid and technical assistance programs abroad; that this administration have a large measure of control over the policies of such lending agencies as the Export-Import Bank; that United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it; and that this administration have equal rank with the other departments of the government such as State, Commerce, Interior and that its administrator have cabinet status."

Up to now, most Americans have assumed that our aid to Europe and the rest of the world is temporary; that we are giving charity to those countries who have suffered the consequences of war. The billions so employed were a gift from the American taxpayer to former allies now in distress. That was the purpose of the Marshall Plan, which was translated into ECA. Point Four is charity on a broader scale, aid being given to countries that have not particularly suffered from war but which can use aid that is going around on the assumption that there can be no harm in taking what comes for free.

Paul Hoffman, as a realist, denies the temporary characteristics of this aid. He has been handing out our money for so long that he has apparently reached the conclusion that the Europeans will never give up so good a thing as getting billions for nothing. If we are stuck with it, Hoffman figures we might as well organize an Overseas Economic Administration with a chair at the Cabinet table.

An organization of such rank would not only be permanent but it would equal the State Department. For instance, Hoffman would have the "United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it." That means that our representatives to several agencies of the United Nations would report to Hoffman and not to Acheson. The idea could produce a mix-up such as existed when Henry Wallace ran a thing called BEW and nobody knew what he was doing. That became a foul muddle after a while and had to be abandoned.

Hoffman blueprints his plan:

". . . I recommend that this proposed Overseas Economic Administration take over the present setup of ECA; that it absorb the Point Four program now administered by the State Department; that it supervise at least the economic side of all sums to be spent on European rearmament under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. Moreover, American representation in the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, International Trade Organization and in all other international government bodies dealing with the world economy would receive its policy direction from such an Overseas Economic Administration."

I do not know whether Paul Hoffman's plans have been taken seriously by anybody in the present administration or whether he has abandoned them. The book was written in 1951, which, while only a year ago, is a great distance in the thinking of a politician. Most of them shift their grounds when the going gets tough on an idea—and this concept of a permanent international WPA, a permanent funnel through which our wealth leaks to Europe, Asia and Africa and all the commissions, committees and board in existence and to be conceived—this concept is not as good an idea in 1952 as it was in 1951.

But the trouble is that once an idea like this gets rolling, somebody who likes to spend billions puts his heart into it—and before you know it, up go the taxes.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

STOMACH AND INTESTINAL ULCER

Many of us may have the idea that when operation for stomach ulcer becomes necessary, the chances for recovery are poor because operation is felt to be the last resort. Operation for removal of the part of the stomach containing the ulcer does not necessarily mean complete recovery or death of the patient.

For many years there has been the classic story regarding the removal of part of the stomach containing the ulcer (stomach or gastric resection). A patient told his physician that he was undergoing resection because it would mean the end of his ulcer symptoms. The physician informed him that if he did not change his habits—worrying, overexcitement, rapid eating — he would likely grow another ulcer.

Some idea of the results obtained by removal of the part of the stomach containing the ulcer is recorded in the Scandinavian Medical Journal, Stockholm, by Drs. A. Drablos, V. Linden, and P. Skjelbred. Of 492 patients with peptic ulcer (ulcer of the stomach and first part of small intestine) who underwent stomach resection during 1937-1946, 14 died immediately after operation—a death rate of 2.8 per cent. Of 30 patients who died from six months to four years after the operation, the cause of death was known in 22, giving a late death rate of about 2 per cent. Of the remaining 448 patients, 313 (278 men and 35 women) were examined in 1950. Of the 313 patients 145 (46.6 per cent) had no symptoms while the remaining 125 had various symptoms such as pain after meals, dizziness, low blood sugar, and thin blood (anemia).

From the above series of cases, these surgeons state: "Since deaths from operations, deaths occurring six months to four years after operation and serious symptoms and disturbances even later than four years after operation, occurred in 20 per cent of patients, satisfactory results were thus obtained in about 80 per cent."

As medical treatment of stomach and intestinal ulcer is now giving brilliant results, less and less surgery is being used in treatment.

However, if your physician advises operation, either by stomach resection or by cutting the nerves supplying the stomach, the fact that such a large percentage obtains satisfactory results should help allay fear of operation.

Storm Out of Abilene

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The White House has been following with great interest—to put it mildly—General Eisenhower's maiden efforts in the political arena.

The President, who conferred pleasantly with Eisenhower just two days before the Abilene speech, was not exactly prepared for the smack-in-the-jaw attack which his administration got from the man he had once urged to run on the Democratic ticket. However, he gave no visible sign of being peeved.

In fact, on the morning after Ike's Abilene blast, the President got off a wisecrack indicating that "mister" Eisenhower had quite a bit to learn yet about politics.

Talking to Eric Johnston, head of the point four program for helping backward areas, Truman said that after he left the White House he wanted to associate himself actively with Johnston's work. He praised the way Johnston was getting American experts to help increase agriculture and improve production in Asia and Africa, then added:

"You know General Eisenhower thinks we can solve these problems with birth control.

"I told him," continued the President, " 'you make that speech in Boston, general, and the Democratic party will carry Massachusetts by 200,000 votes.' "

Old Comrades Watch Ike

In the Pentagon, some of Gen. Eisenhower's old comrades-at-arms watched his Abilene speech and press conference with the keenest interest. They were interested not only because they favor Ike personally, but also because they are a bit worried over the idea of a military man getting mixed up in politics.

After the Abilene events were over and Ike had put himself on record for General MacArthur and criticized the loss of China, one friend recalled an incident in World War 2 when Gen. George Marshall, then chief of staff, summoned Eisenhower. Marshall personally had planned the North African campaign, but without telling Eisenhower what he had in mind, he called him in and showed him a map on which was charted the North African strategy.

"What do you think of it?" Marshall asked.

"It looks O.K. to me," replied the younger man.

"You'd better think so," shot back Marshall. "You're going to be in command."

That was the biggest break in Eisenhower's life. It put him on the road to being a national hero and the presidency.

MacArthur vs. Marshall

Yet, at Abilene, Ike's old comrades pointed out, Ike blasted U. S. China policy, knowing full well that Gen. Marshall, as ambassador to China, had first set that policy; then later, as secretary of state, he carried it out; and finally, as secretary of defense, he vigorously opposed the MacArthur policy of arming Chinese Nationalists, building up Formosa, and going all-out for Chiang Kai-shek.

Old military friends of Ike's and Marshall's also recalled that the bitterest feeling exists between MacArthur and Ike's old benefactor Marshall. Yet at Abilene, Eisenhower, his mind on politics, indicated that he would reappoint MacArthur—if elected president.

Military men, of course, don't understand politics. If so, his old friends in the Pentagon might have been more charitable.

But not being politicians, and being fond of their old chief, Gen. Marshall, they also recalled that the most vicious attack ever made on Gen. Marshall was a 60,000-word diatribe on the floor of the Senate by McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Under the cloak of privilege, McCarthy called Marshall every name in the book, even accusing him of cowardice. Later, McCarthy collected enough money to have the speech privately printed in book form, and it's now being circulated throughout Wisconsin.

Yet, when Eisenhower was asked about the senator who so bitterly castigated his old friend, Ike refused to "engage in personalities."

What Lost China

Those who sat in on the strategy meetings of World War 2 know all too well what it was that chiefly lost us China.

In large part it was the natural tug-of-war between different theatre commanders for guns, men, and materiel when there weren't enough guns, men, or materiel. Eisenhower in the European theatre was burning up the wires to Washington for more men, more guns, more gasoline. Churchill was supporting him.

Simultaneously, MacArthur in the Pacific was burning up the wires for more ships, guns, men; while in the China-Burma-India Theatre, Chiang Kai-shek was pleading for more guns, men, munitions, with Gen. Stilwell supporting him.

It was the American failure to support Chiang adequately during this period which really began "the loss of China." The head of a nation cannot be in virtual exile too long without losing face and without making it extremely difficult to stage a comeback.

Actually it was Ike's good friend Winston Churchill who more than almost anyone set back our China policy. Churchill bucked like a steer whenever Gen. Marshall urged more support for Chiang and more supplies for the Burma road. Churchill wanted to concentrate on Eisenhower's campaign in Europe.

And it was George Marshall more than anyone else except Gen. Al Wedemeyer who urged more support for China. He was so vigorous that in the late summer of 1943, the astute Churchill urged Roosevelt to appoint Marshall commander-in-chief of the allied armies for the big cross-channel invasion. He knew that with Marshall absorbed in the European Theatre he would forget his efforts to push the campaign in China.

Had Marshall encouraged that proposal, he, not Eisenhower, would have been the hero of Europe, and there would have been no speech at Abilene last week.

Trade Unionism in Germany Could Bring Back Reactionary State Socialism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Bonn, Germany, June 10—Like a child with a new toy, there are elements in Germany which, having found the new freedoms of a genuine republic, want to try experiments with trade unionism which, if not checked, would force this country back to the reactionary decades of state socialism.

The trade-union leaders with whom this correspondent discussed the new-fangled "co-determination" are sincere in their belief that they have discovered something that will not bring back state socialism and that will not lead to communism. When the subject is debated with them, however, they do not offer convincing answers.

Thus, the theory of "co-determination" is that the trade unions shall have a voice in the control and management of business enterprises. A board of directors of eleven members would be appointed, of whom five would be chosen by the stockholders and five would be chosen by the trade unions. The eleventh member would have to be satisfactory to both sides.

The idea has been introduced to some extent in the British zone in the Ruhr, sponsored by the representatives of the British Labor government, with their inspiration coming from the British Socialists. The indultrialists in the steel and coal business say they don't like it, but it is suspected that their main efforts have been directed toward winning over the trade-union directors to their side. This, in turn, makes the workers suspicious that these directors have begun to represent management rather than trade unions.

In an informal discussion with prominent members of the German Parliament here who are trade-union leaders, this writer asked what guarantee the sponsors of the idea of "co-determination" could give that investors would be inclined to put in any more money if the six members of the board of directors chosen directly or indirectly by labor were to make decisions that caused a loss. It was further asked whether they thought that the responsibility for losing share-holders' money should be delegated to men who do not represent the shareholders, and whether the right to order profits split up at will should be a function on which the investors could conceivably have a minority voice.

The answer given by the trade unionists was that the labor members would be mindful of all interests and that the time had come to give labor a voice equal with capital. When it was suggested that this could only result in frightening private capital and causing the demand to be raised that the government should supply the money—in which case, the government would have the dominating voice—such fears were dismissed as based on an improbability, because businesses would be making more and mor profits and everybody would be happy.

Businessmen, as well as the members of the government parties here, say the "co-determination" scheme will never be enacted in the form now being advanced by the Socialists and that a representation of one-third labor members and two-thirds stockholders is the most that any law passed in the future will permit.

Curiously enough, American trade unionists who have been here have counseled the German labor leaders against the plan. They say it has been brought forth in Germany not as a means of improving efficiency but as a way of curing a fundamental defect in the trade-union structure here—a method of bringing the workers closer to the trade-union leadership. For at present the labor government in Germany has not developed trade unions in the shop or at the local level but depends entirely on national leaders and officers who necessarily are not close to the workers themselves.

The employes here are not all sold on the value of trade unions and the public generally is somewhat displeased with them because they fell in so readily with the state socialism of the Hitler regime and did not use their economic power to strike and protest against the loss of their liberties. Trade-union leaders counter with the argument that it was the industrialists who backed the rise of Hitler and that equal representation on the boards of directors is needed so as to safeguard against any political abuse of industrial power in the future.

Sporadic strikes at the moment are causing a wave of resentment against the national trade-union leaders, who usually call them primarily to advance political causes of their own. The German worker wants uninterrupted work and job security, and there is a place for sound trade-union organization in the social structure, but maybe experiments of various kinds will have to be tried before the unions will settle down to a sound and stable position in the social and economic structure in Germany.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

In order that you may better appreciate the shining virtue of that handwashing old hypocrite, Philip Murray, the president of the CIO, I present further information on the character of the inveterate jail-bird, house-breaker and wife-beater, Timothy Flynn, who is, by Murray's personal appointment, regional director of the CIO for the Pacific coast. Over a period of five days, I made conscientious efforts to reach brother Flynn by phone with a view to eliciting some discussion of his glorious rise from his first recorded crime, a sincere but clumsy effort, to the mighty seat which he now occupies with arbitrary powers over millions of Americans in and out of his union. I was unsuccessful. After the first essay in which my identity was mentioned to a lady in the CIO headquarters and she replied that he would be away for two days, the best I could get was a "do not answer." The glib CIO mimeographs, which, by turns, have canonized and damned Harry Bridges, thus far have stood mute. Nor have I heard from James J. McElroy, secretary and treasure of the New York Association of Catholic Trade Unionists, who reproved me on a broadcast for my heresy in doubting Murray's nobility. I had rather looked for a few phrases from brother McElroy, but he has ignored a subject not beneath his notice but too big for it.

The powers of the boss unioneers are vast beyond the utmost aspirations of their servant in the White House. Murray can appoint and remove at will straps with plenary powers to call strikes, impose boycotts and kick up riots amounting, as the sainted Roosevelt said in the Inglewood case, to "violent insurrection." Bridges was one such. Notwithstanding Murray's passionate abuse of better Americans who exposed Bridges, he was shown to be a Communist devoted to the violent destruction of the American government.

In Bridge's place, with exquisite delicacy, Murray named a habitual crook and police character. This was such a raw effrontery that one wondered if this could be the same Tim Flynn. The doubt was not stilled until an official fingerprint test gave positive results. The Tim Flynn who runs the west coast region of the CIO is the same poolroom bum and ex-convict whose frightened, unfortunate wife, in a statement in preparation for a successful divorce action in 1939, complained that he had tried to push here in front of an automobile so as to collect money from an insurance company; that on Oct. 8, 1938, after a wedding gala, he hit her a poke in the eye; that he never had supported her and that it had been necessary for her to work as a waitress ever since their daughter was three months old. They lived with her family because Mr. Murray's fine broth of a boy didn't provide a home for them and she had, of course, bought all the baby's clothes.

Another lady, a friend of Mrs. Flynn, said the gallant defender of Labor's Gains had slugged his wife on several occasions, blacked her eye and threatened to kill her, this last, perhaps, in the spirit of clean fun which animated him in his goonery in the Bethlehem Steel riots.

There is, in Worcester, a doubt as to Flynn's pugnacity. The cops, who had multiple dealings with him, do not remember him as a fighter. His police record contains no incident of that nature. His wife said Tim boasted of breaking a fellow's jaw but she didn't say she saw it.

By 1939, he was a splendid physical specimen, six feet two, weight 215, age 36, and outwardly, at least, in fine health. But the data which Murray released on March 9, 1948, when he got the west coast job, was tongue-tied on the subject of any service in the armies of Franklin D. Roosevelt in defense of the four freedoms. The CIO News was likewise silent on

Business Good

New York (AP) — Business was at a relatively high level throughout New York state in May, except for "depressed" industries such as apparel, shoes and small metal trades which continue to be soft. A survey by the State Employment Service of 5,100 firms employing 250,000 workers indicates they foresee a 3 per cent increase in jobs by August. More than 700 of the business firms with defense contracts predict a 6 per cent expansion in employment.

LOSING OLD SKILLS

A Norwegian language paper, the Norseman, long published in North Dakota, not long ago was sold to two Norwegian-born newspaper men who decided that henceforth most of it would be printed in English, since the new generations of Norwegian-Americans could no longer understand the old tongue.

It is well to publish American papers in the language of America. The feeling of American news and feature is better and more clearly transmitted in the language of the people who make the news. But there is also a loss. People who come here to live are enthusiastic about the new home and its opportunities. The children go to American schools and wish to be known as Americans. Too often they scorn the old skills — the carving genius of the grandpa the sewing and other handiwork abilities of the grandma. These, they think, are old fashioned, belong to the old world and should be given up for—what? Movies, spectator sports, sour music? They may have values, but only in proportion to the whole of life.

The old world cultures also have worth. The beautiful handiwork, exquisite cooking, the many skills learned patiently through generations of handing down are important assets. People who still use and develop them here are giving richly to America. Americans do not have to choose old or new —we can have both. That's the great value of America—it is made up of all the powers of all who have come here—and of those who were here before we were. Let's keep the good old things and choose the good from among the new. Let's have the best from all.

SEMANTICS AND TREES

What's in a name? Plenty, one Pennsylvania farmer would suggest.

Harassed by careless hunters who were damaging the Chinese chestnut trees in his orchard, this farmer asked the Department of Agriculture what he could do. They advised him to post this notice: "No trespassing: warning, the dangerous castanea mollissima linneaeus abounds in this orchard. Beware!"

It worked. He is no longer disturbed; his trees are safe. The warning simply meant "The Chinese chestnut tree abounds in this orchard."

The moral, if there is one, is that names can be made to mean anything. Put the proper adjectives before it, and the Chinese chestnut tree may be made to seem a horrible menace. It can also be done with human beings and with nations.

The misuse of a name can have terrible results. By abusing the meaning of names, uncontrollable passions may be aroused. Semantics may seem to be merely a technical subject, understood by a few scholars. But in many ways it controls the whole world. Give a dog a bad name and hang him, they used to say. Call a man a bad name today and his life and business can be destroyed.

FATE OF MOST REDS

The ancient Greeks told of Cronus, the chief of the gods, who swallowed his children until Zeus was born. Zeus was saved from this fate by his mother, and lived to rule the heavens.

Communism is much like Cronus. It keeps devouring its leaders one after another. The list of top-notch Russian Reds who were liquidated by their fellows reads like a Bolshevist roll of honor. The same is true of communism in the satellite countries. Czechoslovakia has seen some purges of the foremost Communists. Now Rumania has its turn. Ana Pauker has for some time been No. 2 in the hierarchy, the most prominent woman in the whole Communist world. Now she is demoted to No. 5, and once started on the downward slope, may never stop. She will be lucky to escape with her life, or confinement in a concentration camp.

Why so many purges? The main causes may be the constant rivalry for preferment, and the suspiciousness ingrained in people who expect every other person to be an enemy. The perquisites in money and power that accrue to Communist leaders are so great that they naturally arouse covetousness. Those out of power bear tales against those in. And the very top men naturally believe that no one is trustworthy.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

A PERMANENT WPA

I am having a wonderful time reading Paul Hoffman's book "Peace Can Be Won." Paul Hoffman is full of ideas and some of them represent a novel concept of the role of the United States. He is a business man who in recent years has devoted himself to the international side of the New Deal.

Hoffman, who once headed ECA, seems to favor a permanent international WPA, a giving, provisioning agency by which the United States takes care of its dependents. In this work, he has been associated with Averell Harriman, who aspires to the Presidency. One of Hoffman's plans is to give to the head of that agency cabinet rank—which makes it not a temporary but a permanent agency. This is what he says:

". . . I should like to recommend most urgently to the American people and to Congress that:

"An Overseas Economic Administration be formed to administer all aid and technical assistance programs abroad; that this administration have a large measure of control over the policies of such lending agencies as the Export-Import Bank; that United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it; and that this administration have equal rank with the other departments of the government such as State, Commerce, Interior and that its administrator have cabinet status."

Up to now, most Americans have assumed that our aid to Europe and the rest of the world is temporary; that we are giving charity to those countries who have suffered the consequences of war. The billions so employed were a gift from the American taxpayer to former allies now in distress. That was the purpose of the Marshall Plan, which was translated into ECA. Point Four is charity on a broader scale, aid being given to countries that have not particularly suffered from war but which can use aid that is going around on the assumption that there can be no harm in taking what comes for free.

Paul Hoffman, as a realist, denies the temporary characteristics of this aid. He has been handing out our money for so long that he has apparently reached the conclusion that the Europeans will never give up so good a thing as getting billions for nothing. If we are stuck with it, Hoffman figures we might as well organize an Overseas Economic Administration with a chair at the Cabinet table.

An organization of such rank would not only be permanent but it would equal the State Department. For instance, Hoffman would have the "United States representatives to all international economic organizations be responsible to it." That means that our representatives to several agencies of the United Nations would report to Hoffman and not to Acheson. The idea could produce a mix-up such as existed when Henry Wallace ran a thing called BEW and nobody knew what he was doing. That became a foul muddle after a while and had to be abandoned.

Hoffman blueprints his plan:

". . . I recommend that this proposed Overseas Economic Administration take over the present setup of ECA; that it absorb the Point Four program now administered by the State Department; that it supervise at least the economic side of all sums to be spent on European rearmament under the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. Moreover, American representation in the World Bank, International Monetary Fund, International Trade Organization and in all other international government bodies dealing with the world economy would receive its policy direction from such an Overseas Economic Administration."

I do not know whether Paul Hoffman's plans have been taken seriously by anybody in the present administration or whether he has abandoned them. The book was written in 1951, which, while only a year ago, is a great distance in the thinking of a politician. Most of them shift their grounds when the going gets tough on an idea—and this concept of a permanent international WPA, a permanent funnel through which our wealth leaks to Europe, Asia and Africa and all the commissions, committees and board in existence and to be conceived—this concept is not as good an idea in 1952 as it was in 1951.

But the trouble is that once an idea like this gets rolling, somebody who likes to spend billions puts his heart into it—and before you know it, up go the taxes.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

STOMACH AND INTESTINAL ULCER

Many of us may have the idea that when operation for stomach ulcer becomes necessary, the chances for recovery are poor because operation is felt to be the last resort. Operation for removal of the part of the stomach containing the ulcer does not necessarily mean complete recovery or death of the patient.

For many years there has been the classic story regarding the removal of part of the stomach containing the ulcer (stomach or gastric resection). A patient told his physician that he was undergoing resection because it would mean the end of his ulcer symptoms. The physician informed him that if he did not change his habits—worrying, overexcitement, rapid eating — he would likely grow another ulcer.

Some idea of the results obtained by removal of the part of the stomach containing the ulcer is recorded in the Scandinavian Medical Journal, Stockholm, by Drs. A. Drablos, V. Linden, and P. Skjelbred. Of 492 patients with peptic ulcer (ulcer of the stomach and first part of small intestine) who underwent stomach resection during 1937-1946, 14 died immediately after operation—a death rate of 2.8 per cent. Of 30 patients who died from six months to four years after the operation, the cause of death was known in 22, giving a late death rate of about 2 per cent. Of the remaining 448 patients, 313 (278 men and 35 women) were examined in 1950. Of the 313 patients 145 (46.6 per cent) had no symptoms while the remaining 125 had various symptoms such as pain after meals, dizziness, low blood sugar, and thin blood (anemia).

From the above series of cases, these surgeons state: "Since deaths from operations, deaths occurring six months to four years after operation and serious symptoms and disturbances even later than four years after operation, occurred in 20 per cent of patients, satisfactory results were thus obtained in about 80 per cent."

As medical treatment of stomach and intestinal ulcer is now giving brilliant results, less and less surgery is being used in treatment.

However, if your physician advises operation, either by stomach resection or by cutting the nerves supplying the stomach, the fact that such a large percentage obtains satisfactory results should help allay fear of operation.

Storm Out of Abilene

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—The White House has been following with great interest—to put it mildly—General Eisenhower's maiden efforts in the political arena.

The President, who conferred pleasantly with Eisenhower just two days before the Abilene speech, was not exactly prepared for the smack-in-the-jaw attack which his administration got from the man he had once urged to run on the Democratic ticket. However, he gave no visible sign of being peeved.

In fact, on the morning after Ike's Abilene blast, the President got off a wisecrack indicating that "mister" Eisenhower had quite a bit to learn yet about politics.

Talking to Eric Johnston, head of the point four program for helping backward areas, Truman said that after he left the White House he wanted to associate himself actively with Johnston's work. He praised the way Johnston was getting American experts to help increase agriculture and improve production in Asia and Africa, then added:

"You know General Eisenhower thinks we can solve these problems with birth control.

"I told him," continued the President, " 'you make that speech in Boston, general, and the Democratic party will carry Massachusetts by 200,000 votes.' "

Old Comrades Watch Ike

In the Pentagon, some of Gen. Eisenhower's old comrades-at-arms watched his Abilene speech and press conference with the keenest interest. They were interested not only because they favor Ike personally, but also because they are a bit worried over the idea of a military man getting mixed up in politics.

After the Abilene events were over and Ike had put himself on record for General MacArthur and criticized the loss of China, one friend recalled an incident in World War 2 when Gen. George Marshall, then chief of staff, summoned Eisenhower. Marshall personally had planned the North African campaign, but without telling Eisenhower what he had in mind, he called him in and showed him a map on which was charted the North African strategy.

"What do you think of it?" Marshall asked.

"It looks O.K. to me," replied the younger man.

"You'd better think so," shot back Marshall. "You're going to be in command."

That was the biggest break in Eisenhower's life. It put him on the road to being a national hero and the presidency.

MacArthur vs. Marshall

Yet, at Abilene, Ike's old comrades pointed out, Ike blasted U. S. China policy, knowing full well that Gen. Marshall, as ambassador to China, had first set that policy; then later, as secretary of state, he carried it out; and finally, as secretary of defense, he vigorously opposed the MacArthur policy of arming Chinese Nationalists, building up Formosa, and going all-out for Chiang Kai-shek.

Old military friends of Ike's and Marshall's also recalled that the bitterest feeling exists between MacArthur and Ike's old benefactor Marshall. Yet at Abilene, Eisenhower, his mind on politics, indicated that he would reappoint MacArthur—if elected president.

Military men, of course, don't understand politics. If so, his old friends in the Pentagon might have been more charitable.

But not being politicians, and being fond of their old chief, Gen. Marshall, they also recalled that the most vicious attack ever made on Gen. Marshall was a 60,000-word diatribe on the floor of the Senate by McCarthy of Wisconsin.

Under the cloak of privilege, McCarthy called Marshall every name in the book, even accusing him of cowardice. Later, McCarthy collected enough money to have the speech privately printed in book form, and it's now being circulated throughout Wisconsin.

Yet, when Eisenhower was asked about the senator who so bitterly castigated his old friend, Ike refused to "engage in personalities."

What Lost China

Those who sat in on the strategy meetings of World War 2 know all too well what it was that chiefly lost us China.

In large part it was the natural tug-of-war between different theatre commanders for guns, men, and materiel when there weren't enough guns, men, or materiel. Eisenhower in the European theatre was burning up the wires to Washington for more men, more guns, more gasoline. Churchill was supporting him.

Simultaneously, MacArthur in the Pacific was burning up the wires for more ships, guns, men; while in the China-Burma-India Theatre, Chiang Kai-shek was pleading for more guns, men, munitions, with Gen. Stilwell supporting him.

It was the American failure to support Chiang adequately during this period which really began "the loss of China." The head of a nation cannot be in virtual exile too long without losing face and without making it extremely difficult to stage a comeback.

Actually it was Ike's good friend Winston Churchill who more than almost anyone set back our China policy. Churchill bucked like a steer whenever Gen. Marshall urged more support for Chiang and more supplies for the Burma road. Churchill wanted to concentrate on Eisenhower's campaign in Europe.

And it was George Marshall more than anyone else except Gen. Al Wedemeyer who urged more support for China. He was so vigorous that in the late summer of 1943, the astute Churchill urged Roosevelt to appoint Marshall commander-in-chief of the allied armies for the big cross-channel invasion. He knew that with Marshall absorbed in the European Theatre he would forget his efforts to push the campaign in China.

Had Marshall encouraged that proposal, he, not Eisenhower, would have been the hero of Europe, and there would have been no speech at Abilene last week.

Trade Unionism in Germany Could Bring Back Reactionary State Socialism

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Bonn, Germany, June 10—Like a child with a new toy, there are elements in Germany which, having found the new freedoms of a genuine republic, want to try experiments with trade unionism which, if not checked, would force this country back to the reactionary decades of state socialism.

The trade-union leaders with whom this correspondent discussed the new-fangled "co-determination" are sincere in their belief that they have discovered something that will not bring back state socialism and that will not lead to communism. When the subject is debated with them, however, they do not offer convincing answers.

Thus, the theory of "co-determination" is that the trade unions shall have a voice in the control and management of business enterprises. A board of directors of eleven members would be appointed, of whom five would be chosen by the stockholders and five would be chosen by the trade unions. The eleventh member would have to be satisfactory to both sides.

The idea has been introduced to some extent in the British zone in the Ruhr, sponsored by the representatives of the British Labor government, with their inspiration coming from the British Socialists. The indultrialists in the steel and coal business say they don't like it, but it is suspected that their main efforts have been directed toward winning over the trade-union directors to their side. This, in turn, makes the workers suspicious that these directors have begun to represent management rather than trade unions.

In an informal discussion with prominent members of the German Parliament here who are trade-union leaders, this writer asked what guarantee the sponsors of the idea of "co-determination" could give that investors would be inclined to put in any more money if the six members of the board of directors chosen directly or indirectly by labor were to make decisions that caused a loss. It was further asked whether they thought that the responsibility for losing share-holders' money should be delegated to men who do not represent the shareholders, and whether the right to order profits split up at will should be a function on which the investors could conceivably have a minority voice.

The answer given by the trade unionists was that the labor members would be mindful of all interests and that the time had come to give labor a voice equal with capital. When it was suggested that this could only result in frightening private capital and causing the demand to be raised that the government should supply the money—in which case, the government would have the dominating voice—such fears were dismissed as based on an improbability, because businesses would be making more and mor profits and everybody would be happy.

Businessmen, as well as the members of the government parties here, say the "co-determination" scheme will never be enacted in the form now being advanced by the Socialists and that a representation of one-third labor members and two-thirds stockholders is the most that any law passed in the future will permit.

Curiously enough, American trade unionists who have been here have counseled the German labor leaders against the plan. They say it has been brought forth in Germany not as a means of improving efficiency but as a way of curing a fundamental defect in the trade-union structure here—a method of bringing the workers closer to the trade-union leadership. For at present the labor government in Germany has not developed trade unions in the shop or at the local level but depends entirely on national leaders and officers who necessarily are not close to the workers themselves.

The employes here are not all sold on the value of trade unions and the public generally is somewhat displeased with them because they fell in so readily with the state socialism of the Hitler regime and did not use their economic power to strike and protest against the loss of their liberties. Trade-union leaders counter with the argument that it was the industrialists who backed the rise of Hitler and that equal representation on the boards of directors is needed so as to safeguard against any political abuse of industrial power in the future.

Sporadic strikes at the moment are causing a wave of resentment against the national trade-union leaders, who usually call them primarily to advance political causes of their own. The German worker wants uninterrupted work and job security, and there is a place for sound trade-union organization in the social structure, but maybe experiments of various kinds will have to be tried before the unions will settle down to a sound and stable position in the social and economic structure in Germany.

They lived with her family because Mr. Murray's fine broth of a boy didn't provide a home for them and she had, of course, bought all the baby's clothes.

Another lady, a friend of Mrs. Flynn, said the gallant defender of Labor's Gains had slugged his wife on several occasions, blacked her eye and threatened to kill her, this last, perhaps, in the spirit of clean fun which animated him in his goonery in the Bethlehem Steel riots.

There is, in Worcester, a doubt as to Flynn's pugnacity. The cops, who had multiple dealings with him, do not remember him as a fighter. His police record contains no incident of that nature. His wife said Tim boasted of breaking a fellow's jaw but she didn't say she saw it.

By 1939, he was a splendid physical specimen, six feet two, weight 215, age 36, and outwardly, at least, in fine health. But the data which Murray released on March 9, 1948, when he got the west coast job, was tongue-tied on the subject of any service in the armies of Franklin D. Roosevelt in defense of the four freedoms. The CIO News was likewise silent on

New York (AP) — Business was at a relatively high level throughout New York state in May, except for "depressed" industries such as apparel, shoes and small metal trades which continue to be soft. A survey by the State Employment Service of 5,100 firms employing 250,000 workers indicates they foresee a 3 per cent increase in jobs by August. More than 700 of the business firms with defense contracts predict a 6 per cent expansion in employment.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

'Ghoulie' Making Bridge Comeback

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Many years ago bridge players used to be very fond of "goulashes," and they seem to be gaining in favor again. The cards are not shuffled for a goulash hand, and they are dealt out five at a time, then five again, and finally three at a time.

The full rules of the game are amusingly and clearly explained by my friend Phil Wertheimer in his little book "Ghoulie," from which today's hand is taken. Any bridge player can pick the game up in about one minute flat, but there's more to it than meets the eye at first glance.

South's bidding, for example, is somewhat ambitious by ordinary bridge standards. He gaily makes a cue-bid wtih a broken spade suit and not a single diamond in support of North's suit.

This would be unsound in ordinary bridge, but it's all right in Ghoulie. North has to have a very fine diamond suit or good support for spades to bid three diamonds. When he shows the spade support, South can gallop all the way to slam.

East's double calls for a lead in the suit bid by dummy, so West opens the eight of diamonds. Dummy plays low, and East plays the six. South knows that West has led his highest diamond, so that East is marked with A-Q-10-9 as well as the six. This means that West started with three diamonds at most.

Armed with that information, South proceeds to strip the diamonds out of the West hand. Declarer ruffs the first diamond, gets to dummy with a trump to ruff a second diamond, and gets to dummy with another trump to ruff a third diamond. Now South leads the king of clubs.

At this moment West should look around for a lily to hold in his right hand, he is as dead as a doornail. He must win the club, for otherwise he will never get a trick in the suit. (South would ruff two clubs in the dummy and give up one heart trick.)

But what does West then return? If he returns a heart, dummy's queen wins; and South later dischards a heart from dummy on the queen of clubs. If West returns a club, South makes the queen and the ten, and dummy discards both losing hearts.

Gets Master's Degree After 21-Year Lapse

Ithaca, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—George Alexandrovich Peretletchikoff today had the Master's degree he earned 21 years ago but which he had refused until he had paid off his "debt of honor."

Peretletchikoff, now known as George A. Perry, completed requirements at Cornell University in June, 1931, for his degree of Master of Science in Dairy Bacteriology.

While working for the degree, he was granted $225 from the university fund. The scholarship money did not have to be repaid.

However, Peretletchikoff wanted to pay it back before receiving his degree. So he refused to pay his diploma fee of $10.

He submitted the final installment of his scholarship "debt" last November. Then he paid the diploma fee.

Yesterday the degree was conferred in absentia at Cornell's 84th commencement and the certificate was mailed to Peretletchikoff's home at Elmhurst, L. I.

Marines to Get Ice Cream

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Units of the First Marine Division on the front lines in Korea will get ice cream three times a week this summer. Announcing this today, the marines corps said it was possible through use of insulated bags, used last winter to carry hot rations. It said each bag will keep five gallons of ice cream hard for eight hours. It will come in two standard flavors, chocolate and vanilla, but the corps said the usual rivalry among mess sergeants probably will produce variations through use of canned fruits and jellies.

the subject of his criminal record.

The powers invested in this beau ideal are not limited as Truman's are by moody rulings of the Supreme Court. Truman cannot seize the steel mills, but Murray and Flynn don't have to. They can drive the Americans off the job and for the enforcement of their wise decisions they may appeal to force by compulsion. More pointedly, all members, or subjects, of the CIO have a duty to turn out for picket duty and such other action as their gauleiters or commissars may order. This fact was put on record in the New York City Council of the CIO in a resolution published during the war which frankly said they would constitute a standing army of more than 100,000 minute men. Mike Quill, then, as now, the boss of this council, was to be generalissimo. Failure to comply and execute Quill's commands meant expulsion and perpetual disbarment from lawful toil.

The power to call on all New York CIO members to obey any orders issued by Quill or any of his subordinates has never been waived. The same power belongs to Timothy Flynn, of San Francisco, FBI No. 84040; Massachusetts State Bureau of Identification No. 14684.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—George Alexandrovich Peretletchikoff today had the Master's degree he earned 21 years ago but which he had refused until he had paid off his "debt of honor."

Peretletchikoff, now known as George A. Perry, completed requirements at Cornell University in June, 1931, for his degree of Master of Science in Dairy Bacteriology.

While working for the degree, he was granted $225 from the university fund. The scholarship money did not have to be repaid.

However, Peretletchikoff wanted to pay it back before receiving his degree. So he refused to pay his diploma fee of $10.

He submitted the final installment of his scholarship "debt" last November. Then he paid the diploma fee.

Yesterday the degree was conferred in absentia at Cornell's 84th commencement and the certificate was mailed to Peretletchikoff's home at Elmhurst, L. I.

Marines to Get Ice Cream

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Units of the First Marine Division on the front lines in Korea will get ice cream three times a week this summer. Announcing this today, the marines corps said it was possible through use of insulated bags, used last winter to carry hot rations. It said each bag will keep five gallons of ice cream hard for eight hours. It will come in two standard flavors, chocolate and vanilla, but the corps said the usual rivalry among mess sergeants probably will produce variations through use of canned fruits and jellies.

Eight Persons Killed

Milan, Italy, June 10 (AP)—At least eight persons were killed and six others injured early today in an explosion which flattened a three-story residential building on Milan's outskirts. It was feared other dead were buried in the debri. Three children, 10 to 12 years old, were among the dead. Eight hours after the blast, rescue workers still combed the ruins. Eyewitnesses said a huge flame erputed from the basement of the building at the moment of the explosion, before dawn. It was believed that a gas plant in the basement blew up.

the subject of his criminal record.

The powers invested in this beau ideal are not limited as Truman's are by moody rulings of the Supreme Court. Truman cannot seize the steel mills, but Murray and Flynn don't have to. They can drive the Americans off the job and for the enforcement of their wise decisions they may appeal to force by compulsion. More pointedly, all members, or subjects, of the CIO have a duty to turn out for picket duty and such other action as their gauleiters or commissars may order. This fact was put on record in the New York City Council of the CIO in a resolution published during the war which frankly said they would constitute a standing army of more than 100,000 minute men. Mike Quill, then, as now, the boss of this council, was to be generalissimo. Failure to comply and execute Quill's commands meant expulsion and perpetual disbarment from lawful toil.

The power to call on all New York CIO members to obey any orders issued by Quill or any of his subordinates has never been waived. The same power belongs to Timothy Flynn, of San Francisco, FBI No. 84040; Massachusetts State Bureau of Identification No. 14684.

Jacoby on Canasta

AWARENESS HELPS IN CANASTA

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

"How do you know when the opponents are about to meld out?" asks a Pittsburgh reader. "I seem to get stuck with a big fistful of cards very often, just when one of the opponents is about one play from out. Is there any sensible way to avoid this?"

This question strikes at the heart of good play. After all, Canasta is a pretty easy game to play. If you understand the basic principles of good play and if you have a good memory for cards you should be able to beat anybody, or at least break even.

Fortunately for the game, this just isn't so. You need more than the simple equipment just mentioned. You must possess awareness to beat other good players.

Let's take an elementary example. One opponent has six cards in his hand after quite a bit of melding has been done by both sides. At a certain point in the play, that opponent closes up his six cards and makes each draw from the stock pile without opening up his hand. What is going on?

Clearly, that player is in out position. He knows exactly what he needs to meld out, and he is too lazy to sit up and look at his hand. He is doing you a favor by warning you that he is drawing for out, and you would be very foolish if you ignored that warning.

If a tricky player acts in the same way, however, you don't assume that he is drawing for out. He probably has a hopeless hand and is trying to panic you into melding out. If he really were drawing for out he would avoid giving you the slightest warning.

How do you know the difference. It's just a question of awareness—quality that probably cannot be taught. Some very clever people don't know when an opponent is trying to fool them. It isn't only in Canasta that you sometimes have to wonder who is telling the truth.

Take another simple case. An experienced player has been discarding safety for several rounds into a fozen discard pile. Finally he goes into a long huddle and, with a full hand of 12 cards (including the card he has just drawn) he discards the first queen of that hand. Is that a singleton, or does he have more queens?

The odds are very high he has more queens left in his hand. An experienced player will almost invariably discard from length in that situation.

Once in a blue moon an experienced player will recklessly discard a singleton. How do you know? If you're there at the table, and if you have great awareness, you know. Otherwise you must simply guess.

Mrs. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

There is no telling how many thousands of homes have been bought through the Homeseekers' Savings & Loan Assn., since they founded it back on July 5th, 1889 in the upper floor rooms of 22-24 Broadway in the old Newkirk building, which according to DeWitt, the historian, it now houses the Goldman Style Shop. At first they called it Home Co-operative Savings and Loan Assn. In 1892 they changed it to its present name.

According to Historian DeWitt, some 40 or 50 prominent citizens assembled in William B. Terwilliger's hat store on the Strand one evening to talk things over. The very next night they gathered in Frederick Stephan, Jr.'s law office and the constitution and by-laws were agreed upon as well as the name of the organization. Some of the officers and directors of 1889 were: Dr. A. H. Mambert, president; A. A. Crosby, vice-president; P. A. Canfield, Jr., treasurer; Lambert J. DuBois, secretary; Fred'k Stephan, Jr., attorney.

According to DeWitt they moved their own home many times. From 22-24 Broadway they moved to the Masonic Building, corner Broadway and Strand now known as the Yallum building. Later they moved to the Sampson building where the famous Sampson Opera House and Sampson Brothers clothing store was located. When The Freeman bought the Sampson building, they moved to 21-23 Broadway and then back to the Yallum building. About 1931 they moved to 20 Ferry street, the site of the Rondout Savings Bank for many years.

So the Homeseekers kept on seeking a permanent home all those years until they finally came to their present location at Strand and Broadway. They certainly must have learned through their own trials and tribulations of moving how to help others to have permanent homes.

With many folks putting oil heat in their homes nowadays, Harry Rigby, Jr., and his mechanics told me they run up against some interesting old and solid constructions. Across from the Orpheum Theatre, Mrs. Larkin is having oil heat installed and they were surprised at the massive walls of stones. Especially a mammoth length of bluestone used instead of a wooden beam to hold the upper story. They also told me that in one of the homes around here they found tremendous wooden beams which had come off a boat originally. No doubt Christy Everett could explain many of the old house foundations. Mrs. Larkin says that her brick and stone house was the first one built on lower Broadway. Well they certainly built them to stay in those days.

Remember those old stone cellars with the hanging shelves where the jars of home canned foods used to be kept. We had one at my grandparents' in Port Ewen. It was really cool in that part of the cellar even on hot July days. The other half was built like living quarters with wooden floor and outside windows. But not all old houses were built with good foundations and substantial cellars. Some are not high enough to stand up in for an average size man. I never could understand that. One thing every house needs is a good cellar and attic. To me a home without junk an average person collects in attics, cellars and closets is just a hotel room or apartment of temporary headquarters.

Later they moved to the Sampson building where the famous Sampson Opera House and Sampson Brothers clothing store was located. When The Freeman bought the Sampson building, they moved to 21-23 Broadway and then back to the Yallum building. About 1931 they moved to 20 Ferry street, the site of the Rondout Savings Bank for many years.

So the Homeseekers kept on seeking a permanent home all those years until they finally came to their present location at Strand and Broadway. They certainly must have learned through their own trials and tribulations of moving how to help others to have permanent homes.

With many folks putting oil heat in their homes nowadays, Harry Rigby, Jr., and his mechanics told me they run up against some interesting old and solid constructions. Across from the Orpheum Theatre, Mrs. Larkin is having oil heat installed and they were surprised at the massive walls of stones. Especially a mammoth length of bluestone used instead of a wooden beam to hold the upper story. They also told me that in one of the homes around here they found tremendous wooden beams which had come off a boat originally. No doubt Christy Everett could explain many of the old house foundations. Mrs. Larkin says that her brick and stone house was the first one built on lower Broadway. Well they certainly built them to stay in those days.

Remember those old stone cellars with the hanging shelves where the jars of home canned foods used to be kept. We had one at my grandparents' in Port Ewen. It was really cool in that part of the cellar even on hot July days. The other half was built like living quarters with wooden floor and outside windows. But not all old houses were built with good foundations and substantial cellars. Some are not high enough to stand up in for an average size man. I never could understand that. One thing every house needs is a good cellar and attic. To me a home without junk an average person collects in attics, cellars and closets is just a hotel room or apartment of temporary headquarters.

Rhee Replies to Plan

Pusan, Korea, June 10 (AP)—President Syngman Rhee has replied to a United Nations plan for easing a political crisis in the war-torn republic of South Korea. Neither the UN suggestions nor Rhee's reply were disclosed here. The crisis is a flareup in a long dispute between Rhee and a majority of the National Assembly, which chooses the chief executive. Rhee wants the office filled by popular vote. It was understood the UN asked Rhee and the Assembly to quit feuding at least 10 days and seek a solution to their differences.

FOR RESULTS — ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

Last load of the precious spuds.

No more French-fries for customers when this cutter shuts down.

Yes, They Have No Potatoes

As the potato shortage makes itself felt with increasing severity, it affects not only the housewife and the restaurant patron; scarcity of the humble "spud" is also beginning to force food processors to close their plants. Potato chip companies, packing houses, and restaurant suppliers are feeling the pinch. Typical victim is Potato Service of New York, Inc., which supplies hospitals and restaurants with the prepared tubers. Its president, Jules Salzbank, says that promised shipments from farmers fail to come through, as they prefer to sell to the expanding "black market," which has been created by scarcity.

President Frank Salzbank has plenty of bags—nothing to put in them.

Witness Testifies On Red Teaching To Fight the U. S.

New York, June 10 (AP)—A witness at the Communist conspiracy trial testified yesterday that American Reds have been taught to "wage a struggle" against the United States in the event of war with the Soviet Union.

The testimony was given by John Lautner, a former official of the Communist party who began his fourth week as a prosecution witness.

He continued to describe his teaching at Communist party schools from 1947 to 1949.

Lautner is a witness against 16 second-string Communist leaders charged under the Smith Act with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Defense lawyers continued their objections yesterday to his testimony about Communist teachings. But Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock overruled them.

Telling what students at the Jefferson School here were taught, Lautner said:

"On the question of just and unjust war, the class was told that in case of war against the Soviet Union, the task of every Communist would be to wage a struggle, if necessary against our own imperialist government, because such a war would be an imperialist aggression against the Soviet Union, the fatherland of socialism, and because the Soviet policy is a peace policy and because the Soviet Union has no aspirations of territorial conquest or to subjugate other people and other nations."

Publication of the Bible in Grade 2 Braille requires 18 bulky volumes.

Survey Is Recommended

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The army engineers recommend a comprehensive survey to determine the feasibility of a plan for regulating Great Lakes levels by a series of flood control projects. The recommendation was contained in a preliminary report released yesterday by the engineers' Great Lakes division. The plan would involve the establishment of a system of dams and other controls to prevent flooding of areas around the lakes.

To Make TV Films

Hollywood, June 10 (AP)—There's a rift in the ranks of the major movie studios, which until now have been aligned solidly against the encroachments of television. Columbia Pictures Inc. announced yesterday it is going into the business of making films for TV. It is the first big studio to do so. Columbia has signed a contract with the Ford Motor Co. to produce 39 half-hour dramatic programs for "The Ford Theatre," to be presented over NBC beginning Oct. 2.

FOR RESULTS — ADVERTISE IN THE FREEMAN

Last load of the precious spuds.

No more French-fries for customers when this cutter shuts down.

Yes, They Have No Potatoes

As the potato shortage makes itself felt with increasing severity, it affects not only the housewife and the restaurant patron; scarcity of the humble "spud" is also beginning to force food processors to close their plants. Potato chip companies, packing houses, and restaurant suppliers are feeling the pinch. Typical victim is Potato Service of New York, Inc., which supplies hospitals and restaurants with the prepared tubers. Its president, Jules Salzbank, says that promised shipments from farmers fail to come through, as they prefer to sell to the expanding "black market," which has been created by scarcity.

President Frank Salzbank has plenty of bags—nothing to put in them.

Witness Testifies On Red Teaching To Fight the U. S.

New York, June 10 (AP)—A witness at the Communist conspiracy trial testified yesterday that American Reds have been taught to "wage a struggle" against the United States in the event of war with the Soviet Union.

The testimony was given by John Lautner, a former official of the Communist party who began his fourth week as a prosecution witness.

He continued to describe his teaching at Communist party schools from 1947 to 1949.

Lautner is a witness against 16 second-string Communist leaders charged under the Smith Act with conspiracy to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the government.

Defense lawyers continued their objections yesterday to his testimony about Communist teachings. But Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock overruled them.

Telling what students at the Jefferson School here were taught, Lautner said:

"On the question of just and unjust war, the class was told that in case of war against the Soviet Union, the task of every Communist would be to wage a struggle, if necessary against our own imperialist government, because such a war would be an imperialist aggression against the Soviet Union, the fatherland of socialism, and because the Soviet policy is a peace policy and because the Soviet Union has no aspirations of territorial conquest or to subjugate other people and other nations."

Publication of the Bible in Grade 2 Braille requires 18 bulky volumes.

Survey Is Recommended

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The army engineers recommend a comprehensive survey to determine the feasibility of a plan for regulating Great Lakes levels by a series of flood control projects. The recommendation was contained in a preliminary report released yesterday by the engineers' Great Lakes division. The plan would involve the establishment of a system of dams and other controls to prevent flooding of areas around the lakes.

To Make TV Films

Hollywood, June 10 (AP)—There's a rift in the ranks of the major movie studios, which until now have been aligned solidly against the encroachments of television. Columbia Pictures Inc. announced yesterday it is going into the business of making films for TV. It is the first big studio to do so. Columbia has signed a contract with the Ford Motor Co. to produce 39 half-hour dramatic programs for "The Ford Theatre," to be presented over NBC beginning Oct. 2.

Consultants for the four arts which are to be represented, painting, music, dance, and drama, include the following: Robert Igelhart, chairman of the department of art education, New York University; Norman Lloyd, director of education and professor of music at the Juilliard School of Music; Lee Mitchell, professor of drama, Northwestern University; and Martha Hall, director of dance at the Juilliard School of Music, New York University and Bennington College.

The individual consultants will work with the delegates in their respective fields during the week and will address remarks to the entire group on the subject of the arts in general education. Section meetings and panel discussions on appropriate topics will be led by professors from the various teachers colleges.

Driverless Truck Upsets at Milton

A driverless tractor-trailer turned over on the property of Agnes Wilson along Route 9W at Milton about 12:45 p. m. Monday, state police of Highland reported.

According to the report filed by troopers, the driver, Clifford Hensler, 36, of RFD 1, Hamburg, stopped his truck along the highway, left its motor running. After he left the cab, the truck, for an unknown reason, began to roll across the highway and turned over on its side, causing some damage to shrubs, trees and flowers on the Wilson property, troopers said.

Hensler was slightly hurt when he attempted to get back into the truck to stop it, but he did not require medical attention, the report stated.

The truck, which was loaded, was owned by the Denver-Chicago Trucking Company of Blair, Neb.

Pace Disagrees With Hudelson on Potency of Armies

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr. thoroughly disagrees with Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudelson that United Nations forces in Korea lack the manpower to face the Communist hordes and win the war.

"Any opinion to the effect that United Nations forces in Korea would be defeated if the Communists should attack," Pace declared, "is contrary to everything that our highest military leaders in the field— the wen who know most about the situation—have to report.

"For my part, I'll put my trust in the ability of the armed forces of our nation and those of our allies to meet any challenge which the Communists may make," Pace said in a statement.

The secretary was commenting on an interview in Los Angeles by Hudelson, a reserve officer who is returning to civilian life after 21 months active duty, including service as commander of the 40th Division in Korea.

Hudelson, who said in his original interview, "I'm not sure why we're fighting," told reporters later: "Secretary Pace is a fine gentleman, and as secretary undoubtedly has access to information not available to a poor old broken-down commander just back from Korea. I was speaking only from personal experience."

Driverless Truck Upsets at Milton

A driverless tractor-trailer turned over on the property of Agnes Wilson along Route 9W at Milton about 12:45 p. m. Monday, state police of Highland reported.

According to the report filed by troopers, the driver, Clifford Hensler, 36, of RFD 1, Hamburg, stopped his truck along the highway, left its motor running. After he left the cab, the truck, for an unknown reason, began to roll across the highway and turned over on its side, causing some damage to shrubs, trees and flowers on the Wilson property, troopers said.

Hensler was slightly hurt when he attempted to get back into the truck to stop it, but he did not require medical attention, the report stated.

The truck, which was loaded, was owned by the Denver-Chicago Trucking Company of Blair, Neb.

Pace Disagrees With Hudelson on Potency of Armies

Washington, June 10 (AP)—Secretary of the Army Frank Pace, Jr. thoroughly disagrees with Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudelson that United Nations forces in Korea lack the manpower to face the Communist hordes and win the war.

"Any opinion to the effect that United Nations forces in Korea would be defeated if the Communists should attack," Pace declared, "is contrary to everything that our highest military leaders in the field— the wen who know most about the situation—have to report.

"For my part, I'll put my trust in the ability of the armed forces of our nation and those of our allies to meet any challenge which the Communists may make," Pace said in a statement.

The secretary was commenting on an interview in Los Angeles by Hudelson, a reserve officer who is returning to civilian life after 21 months active duty, including service as commander of the 40th Division in Korea.

Hudelson, who said in his original interview, "I'm not sure why we're fighting," told reporters later: "Secretary Pace is a fine gentleman, and as secretary undoubtedly has access to information not available to a poor old broken-down commander just back from Korea. I was speaking only from personal experience."

Russia. The southeast areas of the Soviet Union, particularly Georgia and the Transcaucasus, long were hotbeds of rebellion against the Russian czars.

Lying between the states of Georgia and Kirgiz along the southeast border with Asia are the Turkmen, Uzbek and Tadzhik republics, which long have been the scenes of peasant opposition to Moscow.

Using the familiar Communist doubletalk, Pravda reported that the whole party leadership in Kirgiz "manifested a liberal attitude towards idological mistakes and errors." In the field of history, it said, there were many "bourgeois nationalist errors" and historians failed to show "the positive role which unification with Russia played in Kirgiz history."

Previously Pravda published similar complaints about the central committee of the Georgian Republic party central committee.

Secret Police Head Believed Running Soviet Purge Setup

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press Foreign News Analyst

There is reason to suspect that Soviet Deputy Prime Minister Lavrenty Pavlovitch Beria, head of the USSR secret police system, has made an extensive tour of the Soviet southeast to read the riot act and personally supervise a purge.

In at least two southeast states —his own native Georgia and Kirgiz—he has left a wake of toppled Communist leaders. There have been accounts of this from time to time in Pravda, central organ of the Communist party.

Shakeup After Visit

Pravda has revealed that Beria was in Georgia in April. Last week Pravda disclosed a broad shakeup in Georgia, which is where Prime Minister Stalin was born. The secretary of the party central committee, K. N. Charkviani, was fired, and replaced by a comrade named Gheladze. The prime minister of the Georgian Republic, Z. N. Chknubianishvilli, also was fired, and replaced by his former deputy, Z. Ketskhoveli.

Pravda also revealed, early this week, that in the Kirgiz republic, the party central committee secretary, L. Razzakov, had come under severe criticism. Razzakov has been in the job only six months, and even now may be fired. His predecessor, K. Orazaliev, got his walking papers in January.

Leaders Fail

The complaint in both Kirgiz and Georgia was mostly "bourgeois nationalism," which means the party leadership failed to put down effectively the remnants of nationalist feeling in the states. Bourgeois nationalism means respect for any phase of history or culture which does not stem directly from Moscow and great

Little Gardens Club Studies Linnaeus

The Little Gardens Club held a meeting on Friday, June 6, at the Nieuw Dorp. Mrs. William Niles was the hostess. A paper depicting the life of Carl von Linne Linnaeus was prepared and read by Mrs. John D. Groves.

A tireless Swedish doctor and scientist who lived during the years 1707-78, Dr. Linnaeus became one of the most distinguished of naturalists and the founder of modern botany. He was the first to expound the true principles for defining genera and species.

Mrs. Groves described his early struggle to get an education. From the beginning, he showed a genius for classification of plants and his method, later, was adopted by Oxford University. The doctor's motto was said to be "know the world of nature of which you are a part."

A social hour was enjoyed following the meeting. Mrs. William McNamee served at the punch bowl.

The next meeting of the club will take place on Friday, June 20, at the home of Mrs. John H. Saxe, West Hurley.

Little Gardens Club Studies Linnaeus

The Little Gardens Club held a meeting on Friday, June 6, at the Nieuw Dorp. Mrs. William Niles was the hostess. A paper depicting the life of Carl von Linne Linnaeus was prepared and read by Mrs. John D. Groves.

A tireless Swedish doctor and scientist who lived during the years 1707-78, Dr. Linnaeus became one of the most distinguished of naturalists and the founder of modern botany. He was the first to expound the true principles for defining genera and species.

Mrs. Groves described his early struggle to get an education. From the beginning, he showed a genius for classification of plants and his method, later, was adopted by Oxford University. The doctor's motto was said to be "know the world of nature of which you are a part."

A social hour was enjoyed following the meeting. Mrs. William McNamee served at the punch bowl.

The next meeting of the club will take place on Friday, June 20, at the home of Mrs. John H. Saxe, West Hurley.

Texans Fete Hogan Before Golf Gamble

Dallas, June 10 (AP)—They feted Ben Hogan last night as one of golf's greatest competitors when Texas sports fans and golf bigwigs tossed a dinner to mark Hogan's formal induction into the Texas sports Hall of Fame.

Two days from now they'll "fade" him in one of golf's greatest gambles—the United States Open championship tournament.

The grim little man from nearby Fort Worth was on everyone's mind today as the 162 star shotmakers who will start play in the 52nd Open Thursday morning tested the difficult, tree-lined Northwood course.

Hogan's rivals don't like to concede that Ben can win the title for the third straight year—and the fourth in as many successive attempts for him. But at the same time they find it hard to pick against him.

Only two players, Willie Anderson and the great Bobby Jones, ever have won the Open four times.

In spite of their reluctance to pick Hogan to win, the men who'll play against him feel he is the man the eventual winner will have to beat; a cool, calculating golfer who figures out every shot in advance and does as much as possible to counteract the effects of luck.

Hogan himself offered a less optimistic view of his chances. His best practice score, he said, was a 71 and he figured a 72-hole total of 238 would be needed to win. Ben said he had not been able to put his approaches close enough to the hole, although he was hitting the ball as well as he did at Oakland Hills last year.

Merchants Shade Lanesville, 8-7

The Colonial Merchants struggled through to an 8 to 7 squeaker victory over the Lanesville AC Sunday afternoon.

George Telepas, who relieved Dan Haggerty for the Merchants in the sixth inning, was credited with the win. Smith, who went all the way for Lanesville, was the loser.

Manager "Pucker" Davis' crew opened fast with a 5-0 edge going into the bottom half of the second. Lanesville, with a five-run outburst in the second, knotted the count at 5-all.

The home club went ahead with a single tally in the fifth but again dropped the lead when the Merchants rallied for two in the sixth to make it 7-6.

The Merchants put over what proved to be the winning run in the top half of the ninth. Lanesville made it an 8-7 game in the bottom half of the frame with a single run.

The only extra-base hits of the game were by Herdman of Lanesville who got a double and two singles and Tommy Carlino, centerfielder for the Merchants, who also stroked three hits.

Lanesville will meet the Shokan Indians next Sunday.

Drills are also scheduled Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

The player draft, similar to that used in the Little League, will take place June 16, with Bob Umpleby, the loop president presiding to give the PONY organization the benefit of his experience.

Chicago—Lester Felton, 152, Detroit, knocked out Johnny Brown, 151 Chicago (7).

Trenton, N. J.—George Johnson, 152¼, Trenton, stopped Bobby Mann, 155, Trenton (4).

Merchants Shade Lanesville, 8-7

The Colonial Merchants struggled through to an 8 to 7 squeaker victory over the Lanesville AC Sunday afternoon.

George Telepas, who relieved Dan Haggerty for the Merchants in the sixth inning, was credited with the win. Smith, who went all the way for Lanesville, was the loser.

Manager "Pucker" Davis' crew opened fast with a 5-0 edge going into the bottom half of the second. Lanesville, with a five-run outburst in the second, knotted the count at 5-all.

The home club went ahead with a single tally in the fifth but again dropped the lead when the Merchants rallied for two in the sixth to make it 7-6.

The Merchants put over what proved to be the winning run in the top half of the ninth. Lanesville made it an 8-7 game in the bottom half of the frame with a single run.

The only extra-base hits of the game were by Herdman of Lanesville who got a double and two singles and Tommy Carlino, centerfielder for the Merchants, who also stroked three hits.

Lanesville will meet the Shokan Indians next Sunday.

Batting: Don Lenhardt, Tigers—drove in fire Detroit runs with a single and his third grand slam homer of the season, against his former Red Sox mates, but it was not enough as Boston won a 9-8 slugfest.

Pitching: Joe Black, Dodgers—pitched three innings of shutout relief ball to gain credit for Brooklyn's comeback 6-2 win over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Chicago Bowlers Are in the Money

Milwaukee, June 10 (AP)—A Chicago team, Clark Wilson Bowling Center, shot well up into the prize money yesterday in the regular team event of the American Bowling Congress tournament by whacking 2,822.

Harold Jensen was the main gun with games of 200, 224 and 194 for 618 as the quintet hung up games of 924, 916 and 982.

Two Detroiters, Tony Mancini and Jerry Howard, got together for a good 1,253 in doubles, 35 pins out of tenth place. Mancini bagged singles of 215, 217 and 185 for 617 while his partner gave him 636 on games of 233, 166 and 237.

In singles, the No. 1 count was a 632 by Gilbert Fischl, Verona, Wis., who shot games of 225, 204 and 203.

There were no changes among the leaders and no one was able to top 1,800 in all events.

Dressen Figures August Lead Would Bring Brooks Pennant

Dodgers Win 35 Games, Hope to Stretch String

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the Brooklyn Dodgers are not careful, they may find themselves 13½ games in front of the New York Giants on Aug. 11.

And is there anybody who doesn't know what happened to the poor Brooks after that date last year?

Even so, manager Charlie Dressen of the dauntless Dodgers is willing to gamble with such a long lead. He agrees that the Giants' unprecedented 1951 rush to the top in a playoff victory over the Brooks was nothing short of a miracle. And miracles just don't happen twice in a row this modern day and age.

Dressen undoubtedly recalls an embarrassing query put to him by a veteran sports columnist in Tampa, Fla., last spring:

"How are you going to contrive to blow a 13½-game lead this year, Chuck?"

Dressen stiffened at the question. He started to frame a reply, but thought better of it, and checked a hot retort. It was obvious to all within earshot that the question cut Chuck to the quick. Referring to that incident later, Dressen vowed grimly in the presence of intimates:

"Just give me any kind of a lead in the middle of August and nobody will catch us. I guarantee that right now."

Dodgers Win 35

Currently, the Dodgers are playing a better brand of baseball than the did at a corresponding time a year ago. They're playing remarkable .761 ball with 35 victories in 46 games. Last year they were 30-16 for .652—more than 100 points lower.

They've dropped just one of their 10 games on this second western swing. They lead the second-place Giants by five games.

The Dodgers had to come from behind to win. Cloyd Boyer blanked them for six innings but the Brooks tied the score at 2-2 in the seventh when Peewee Reese singled with the bases loaded. Reliefer Alpha Brazie doused the fire but got behind in the eighth when Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo slammed two-run homers. Each homer followed a base on balls. Furillo hit his four-bagger off Jack Crimian. It was Brazele's first loss.

Homers by Stan Musial and Dick Sisler accounted for the Redbird tallies.

Sox Bolster Lead

Boston's Red Sox also solidified their first place hold, opening up a one-game margin over the second place New York Yankees by vanquishing the Detroit Tigers, 9-8.

The Red Sox watched the Tigers twice go into the lead on home runs by former Boston sluggers Don Lenhardt and Walter Dropo, but bounced back each time. The winning run came in the sixth when Johnny Pesky, ex-Red Sox infielder, committed an error to allow Dom DiMaggio to cross the plate.

Lenhardt and Dropo batted in all but one of the Tigers' runs. Don singled in a run and rammed in four with his third grand slammer of the year. Dropo drove in two with his 10th round tripper.

In the only other game in the majors, Boston's Braves nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2. Rookie Ben Thorpe drove in two Boston runs with a single to back up Jim Wilson's five-hit pitching.

The scheduled night game between Chicago and the Senators in Washington was postponed because of rain.

Dodgers, Giants Score In YMCA Preps Softball

The Dodgers scored at 7 to 5 victory over the Yankees in the YMCA Preps Softball League Saturday morning at the Athletic Field.

In the other half of the twinbill, the Giants outlasted the Pirates to win by 10 to 8. The lead changed hands four times.

The Pirates' bid for a win in the last inning was stifled when Dick Duffy made a nice catch of Ed Celuch's liner between short and third with the bases loaded and two outs. Duffy collected two hits and drove in three runs for the Giants.

Two more weeks remain in play for the league. A new plan will be devised when school vacation begins.

Chicago Bowlers Are in the Money

Milwaukee, June 10 (AP)—A Chicago team, Clark Wilson Bowling Center, shot well up into the prize money yesterday in the regular team event of the American Bowling Congress tournament by whacking 2,822.

Harold Jensen was the main gun with games of 200, 224 and 194 for 618 as the quintet hung up games of 924, 916 and 982.

Two Detroiters, Tony Mancini and Jerry Howard, got together for a good 1,253 in doubles, 35 pins out of tenth place. Mancini bagged singles of 215, 217 and 185 for 617 while his partner gave him 636 on games of 233, 166 and 237.

In singles, the No. 1 count was a 632 by Gilbert Fischl, Verona, Wis., who shot games of 225, 204 and 203.

There were no changes among the leaders and no one was able to top 1,800 in all events.

Dressen Figures August Lead Would Bring Brooks Pennant

Dodgers Win 35 Games, Hope to Stretch String

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

If the Brooklyn Dodgers are not careful, they may find themselves 13½ games in front of the New York Giants on Aug. 11.

And is there anybody who doesn't know what happened to the poor Brooks after that date last year?

Even so, manager Charlie Dressen of the dauntless Dodgers is willing to gamble with such a long lead. He agrees that the Giants' unprecedented 1951 rush to the top in a playoff victory over the Brooks was nothing short of a miracle. And miracles just don't happen twice in a row this modern day and age.

Dressen undoubtedly recalls an embarrassing query put to him by a veteran sports columnist in Tampa, Fla., last spring:

"How are you going to contrive to blow a 13½-game lead this year, Chuck?"

Dressen stiffened at the question. He started to frame a reply, but thought better of it, and checked a hot retort. It was obvious to all within earshot that the question cut Chuck to the quick. Referring to that incident later, Dressen vowed grimly in the presence of intimates:

"Just give me any kind of a lead in the middle of August and nobody will catch us. I guarantee that right now."

Dodgers Win 35

Currently, the Dodgers are playing a better brand of baseball than the did at a corresponding time a year ago. They're playing remarkable .761 ball with 35 victories in 46 games. Last year they were 30-16 for .652—more than 100 points lower.

They've dropped just one of their 10 games on this second western swing. They lead the second-place Giants by five games.

The Dodgers had to come from behind to win. Cloyd Boyer blanked them for six innings but the Brooks tied the score at 2-2 in the seventh when Peewee Reese singled with the bases loaded. Reliefer Alpha Brazie doused the fire but got behind in the eighth when Roy Campanella and Carl Furillo slammed two-run homers. Each homer followed a base on balls. Furillo hit his four-bagger off Jack Crimian. It was Brazele's first loss.

Homers by Stan Musial and Dick Sisler accounted for the Redbird tallies.

Sox Bolster Lead

Boston's Red Sox also solidified their first place hold, opening up a one-game margin over the second place New York Yankees by vanquishing the Detroit Tigers, 9-8.

The Red Sox watched the Tigers twice go into the lead on home runs by former Boston sluggers Don Lenhardt and Walter Dropo, but bounced back each time. The winning run came in the sixth when Johnny Pesky, ex-Red Sox infielder, committed an error to allow Dom DiMaggio to cross the plate.

Lenhardt and Dropo batted in all but one of the Tigers' runs. Don singled in a run and rammed in four with his third grand slammer of the year. Dropo drove in two with his 10th round tripper.

In the only other game in the majors, Boston's Braves nipped the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2. Rookie Ben Thorpe drove in two Boston runs with a single to back up Jim Wilson's five-hit pitching.

The scheduled night game between Chicago and the Senators in Washington was postponed because of rain.

Dodgers, Giants Score In YMCA Preps Softball

The Dodgers scored at 7 to 5 victory over the Yankees in the YMCA Preps Softball League Saturday morning at the Athletic Field.

In the other half of the twinbill, the Giants outlasted the Pirates to win by 10 to 8. The lead changed hands four times.

The Pirates' bid for a win in the last inning was stifled when Dick Duffy made a nice catch of Ed Celuch's liner between short and third with the bases loaded and two outs. Duffy collected two hits and drove in three runs for the Giants.

Two more weeks remain in play for the league. A new plan will be devised when school vacation begins.

Duke Has Plenty Of Competition for Goshen Cup Run

Goshen—Beaten only by Hit Song of the Arden Homestead Stables in 1951, the Duke of Lullwater, current Hambletonian favorite owned by Walter T. Candler of Decatur, Ga., will be out to take top laurels in the $10,000 historic Dickerson trophy race at Historic Track here Wednesday, July 2.

Hit Song, driven by Harry Pownall, upset the Duke of Lullwater in two heats last year. In 14 other starts, the Duke was unbeaten, winning $50,270.57 as a two-year-old.

Many horsemen expressed the opinion that the Duke, as a two-year-old, could have beaten the three-year-old performers.

Hit Song won $35,904.95 as a two-year-old, taking eight firsts, 13 seconds and two thirds in 30 starts.

The Duke and Hit Song, however, will not have a private party in the Historic-Dickerson. They'll face such able trotters as Diplomat Hanover, Hardy Hanover, Sharp Note, Task Force, Volo Colby, Theme Song and others.

Beau Brummel, a half brother of Mainliner who won the 1951 Hambletonian, is also entered.

Racing begins at Historic Track on Monday, June 30, with the Grand Circuit colors flying in the afternoon breezes for five days.

Chapman Spurts For Second Title

Paris, June 10 (AP)—Dick Chapman, seasoned golfer from Pinehurst, N. C., held his second French Amateur golf title today, but it required a come-from-behind rally to turn back young Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.

The 41-year-old Chapman, who lost his British amateur title last month to Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N. C., at Prestwick, Scotland, turned on a display of sub-par golf in the afternoon round to defeat Maxwell, 4 and 3. Chapman was 11 under par.

Maxwell, 22-year-old North Texas State College student and the U. S. amateur champion, was one up after the 18-hole morning round of the 36-hole finale.

Eisenhower Has

hower said he could not remember any statements from that general at that time that a military man should not be president.

Calls T-H Law Best

Other visitors yesterday quoted Eisenhower as terming the Taft-Hartley Law the "best law on the books." But he was represented as not opposed to amending it. He said he was against "punitive laws."

Rep. Christian Herter of Massachusetts told newsmen the general said he would balance the budget, if elected president, by "stretching out military expenditures and adjusting our own armament program" to what the nation's economy could bear rather than to an assumption "when Stalin might perform."

Herter also quoted Eisenhower as favoring non-military trade between western Europe and the countries behind the Iron Curtain.

Clair J. Killoran, chairman of the Delaware delegation, told reporters his group now is 7-3 for Eisenhower, with two uncommitted. It previously was reported 6-4 for Taft, with two uncommitted.

Seven for Taft

However, at Wilmington, Del., last night, former U. S. Sen. Daniel O. Hastings, a member of the delegation, said his own talks with delegates yesterday indicated seven are for Taft and four for Eisenhower, with one uncommitted.

Yesterday's four visiting delegations, whose leaders said the groups arranged to pay their own expenses for the trip here, were guests last night at a private Commodore Hotel dinner given by the New York state Eisenhower-for-President committee.

Eisenhower was scheduled to attend a meeting this morning of trustees of Columbia University. He is president on leave from Columbia.

The first delegation meeting, with Alabama representatives, was to start at 1 p. m. (EST).

Eisenhower Aides

said the Eisenhower camp has no candidate for the place, so far as he knows.

Previously J. Russel Sprague, New York national committeeman, said Eisenhower followers would fight MacArthur's appointment.

Walter Hallanan, West Virginia backer of Taft, predicted the arrangements group would override these protests in short order.

No one expected MacArthur to serve also as temporary chairman of the convention, a role usually filled by the keynoter.

For this reason, there were signs that they might designate National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson to continue wielding the gavel until the permanent chairman takes over. Rep. Joseph Martin of Massachusettts, House minority leader, was cast for this role.

Martin hasn't come out for either of the two major contenders for the GOP presidential nomination.

Thus, if the committee approved such a slate, it would demonstrate that the Eisenhower backers have little influence within the Republican national committee.

This committee must pass on the seating of contested delegations and Eisenhower's backers seemed to face an uphill fight to get convention votes for groups they were backing from Texas, Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi and possibly other states.

Acheson Asks Swift

quire Senate approval are a peace contract between the United States, Britain, France and West Germany, and an amendment to the North Atlantic Treaty granting West Germany the guarantees of the alliance.

Two weeks ago, Acheson witnessed the signing of a third pact in Europe, an agreemnt setting up a European army composed of troops from West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The U. S. was not a signatory to the pact and Senate confirmation was not required, but Acheson went out of his way in his testimony today to stress the importance of that agreement.

No Misunderstanding

And, in a move to reassure the French government that the U. S. would not sit idly by in the event West Germany at some future date decides to pull out of the six-nation army, Acheson told the committee:

"There must be no misunderstanding in any quarter about how we would regard any act which would affect the integrity or unity of the European defense community."

Such a move would affect the "interests and security" of the U. S., Acheson said, adding that this nation, Britain and France would immediately begin consultations to decide what to do.

"The parties would then consider, subject to the constitutional requirements of each country, how best to concert their efforts in order to take the common action necessary to ward off the threatened danger," the secretary said.

An appeal for quick Senate confirmation was expected also from John J. McCloy, U. S. high commissioner in West Germany.

Three Persons Get Suspended Terms

Three persons were given suspended sentences by County Judge John M. Cashin Monday afternoon when County Court convened to dispose of several criminal matters.

Charles Palmateer, 24, of Poughkeepsie, who had previously entered a plea of guilty to a third degree burglary charge, was sentenced to Clinton Prison at Dannemora for an indeterminate term of from one and one-half to three years, the execution of the judgement being suspended and the defendant placed on probation by Judge Cashin with the consent of the district attorney after Palmateer's attorney, Howard C. St. John, reviewed his client's honorable service record with the armed forces and pointed out that he was at present employed. A second count of the indictment, charging unlawful entry, was dismissed and bail was exonerated.

The same disposition was made in the case of William Joseph Dougherty, 25, also of Poughkeepsie. Defense Attorney Seymour Werbalowsky pointed out that Dougherty had an honorable service record and was employed. A one and one-half to three year sentence was suspended and Dougherty was placed on probation. The second count of the indictment, charging unlawful entry, was dismissed and bail exonerated.

Having previously pleaded guilty to a charge of rape as a misdemeanor, Robert Hertica was sentenced to a term of one year in the Ulster county jail, and Judge Cashin ordered execution of the judgment of sentence suspended and placed Hertica on probation. Attorney Abram Molyneaux represented the defendant. A second count of the indictment as well as another indictment was dismissed on Molyneaux's motion with consent of District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn.

Earl Roy Decker, 24, of Poughkeepsie, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of unlawful entry. Imposition of sentence was postponed until Thursday morning at 10 a. m. Decker was represented by Attorney James G. Connelly.

James Robert Foster, 25, of New York, who had been indicted on charges of burglary, second degree, and unlawful entry, allegedly committed in this county on August 24, 1949, was arraigned before Judge Cashin, who assigned Hubert Richter to his defense. A formal plea of innocent was entered for Foster by Richter, and the case was adjourned until Thursday.

Herds Are Smaller, Cows Yield More

Although herds are smaller, cows are producing more milk, with an average output of 500 pounds more per cow now than a few years ago, according to George J. Silkworth, chairman of the local dairy month celebration committee.

Statistics released recently by the Department of Agriculture, he reported, disclose that there were 12 per cent fewer cows in the United States in 1950 than in 1945, but that their individual production now averages close to 5,300 pounds annually as compared with 4,797 pounds at the close of World War 2.

Here are the figures, according to Silkworth:

In 1945, there were 25,329,000 cows in the nation, producing about 121.5 billion pounds of milk. In 1950, the 22,779,000 cows in the country produced 120.6 billion pounds.

Order of Purple Heart 'Museum' Visits Kingston

A unique "museum" on wheels arrived in Kingston this morning, sponsored by the Military Order of the Purple Heart, Inc., with national headquarters in Chicago.

A curious box-like body is coveher with an assortment of pistols, guns and the objects of war, some from remote parts of the world. The vehicle, operated by Samuel S. Wolfe, tour manager, will be located today in the uptown business area. Contributions, which are voluntary, will be used for the rehabilitation and welfare of Purple Heart veterans.

The organization sponsoring the tour is non-profit, composed of combat wounded of all wars in which the United States has participated.

Stapled to the exterior of the truck are pistols, rifles, mortar shells, hand grenades, daggers, etc., remarkable for their variety and type. There is also a Kentucky Long Tom rifle, a Filipino "barong" (dagger), a Chicago "palm pistol," a Chinese matchlock rifle, said to be 400 years old, "the oldest in the world," and a Spencer carbine that "won the Civil War for the North."

The truck was built at the Sautelle Veterans Hospital, West Los Angles, Calif., and has been on tour since 1949. It has covered every state west of the Mississippi. From Kingston the truck will go to Schenectady.

ings were torn from their foundations when concussion grenades set off fires and explosions in POW caches of gasoline.

Paratroopers bounded into the prisoners' trenches. Bayonets plunged into Reds who resisted. Some of the wounded fought as long as they could move.

Strewn With Dead

Thirty minutes after the fight started the field was strewn with dead.

Many of the dead prisoners were slain by fellow inmates. Maj. David Korn, Richmond, Va., said he saw Red leaders kill at least five of their own men who tried to surrender.

"They were stuck in the stomach with spears," he said.

In the trenches that surrounded all the buildings bodies of decapitated Communists were found.

Three hundred hate-spitting Reds made the last stand in the rocking, roaring battle. They lunged with their home-made spears from the south side of the compound.

A half dozen Patton tanks roared into the compound and trained their guns on the die-hard group but held their fire. Many of the 300 threw down their spears hopelessly and surrendered.

The fighting over, prisoners were trucked off to the new enclosures, stripped, fingerprinted and given new clothing.

Duke Has Plenty Of Competition for Goshen Cup Run

Goshen—Beaten only by Hit Song of the Arden Homestead Stables in 1951, the Duke of Lullwater, current Hambletonian favorite owned by Walter T. Candler of Decatur, Ga., will be out to take top laurels in the $10,000 historic Dickerson trophy race at Historic Track here Wednesday, July 2.

Hit Song, driven by Harry Pownall, upset the Duke of Lullwater in two heats last year. In 14 other starts, the Duke was unbeaten, winning $50,270.57 as a two-year-old.

Many horsemen expressed the opinion that the Duke, as a two-year-old, could have beaten the three-year-old performers.

Hit Song won $35,904.95 as a two-year-old, taking eight firsts, 13 seconds and two thirds in 30 starts.

The Duke and Hit Song, however, will not have a private party in the Historic-Dickerson. They'll face such able trotters as Diplomat Hanover, Hardy Hanover, Sharp Note, Task Force, Volo Colby, Theme Song and others.

Beau Brummel, a half brother of Mainliner who won the 1951 Hambletonian, is also entered.

Racing begins at Historic Track on Monday, June 30, with the Grand Circuit colors flying in the afternoon breezes for five days.

Chapman Spurts For Second Title

Paris, June 10 (AP)—Dick Chapman, seasoned golfer from Pinehurst, N. C., held his second French Amateur golf title today, but it required a come-from-behind rally to turn back young Billy Maxwell of Odessa, Tex.

The 41-year-old Chapman, who lost his British amateur title last month to Harvie Ward of Tarboro, N. C., at Prestwick, Scotland, turned on a display of sub-par golf in the afternoon round to defeat Maxwell, 4 and 3. Chapman was 11 under par.

Three Persons Get Suspended Terms

Three persons were given suspended sentences by County Judge John M. Cashin Monday afternoon when County Court convened to dispose of several criminal matters.

Charles Palmateer, 24, of Poughkeepsie, who had previously entered a plea of guilty to a third degree burglary charge, was sentenced to Clinton Prison at Dannemora for an indeterminate term of from one and one-half to three years, the execution of the judgement being suspended and the defendant placed on probation by Judge Cashin with the consent of the district attorney after Palmateer's attorney, Howard C. St. John, reviewed his client's honorable service record with the armed forces and pointed out that he was at present employed. A second count of the indictment, charging unlawful entry, was dismissed and bail was exonerated.

The same disposition was made in the case of William Joseph Dougherty, 25, also of Poughkeepsie. Defense Attorney Seymour Werbalowsky pointed out that Dougherty had an honorable service record and was employed. A one and one-half to three year sentence was suspended and Dougherty was placed on probation. The second count of the indictment, charging unlawful entry, was dismissed and bail exonerated.

Having previously pleaded guilty to a charge of rape as a misdemeanor, Robert Hertica was sentenced to a term of one year in the Ulster county jail, and Judge Cashin ordered execution of the judgment of sentence suspended and placed Hertica on probation. Attorney Abram Molyneaux represented the defendant. A second count of the indictment as well as another indictment was dismissed on Molyneaux's motion with consent of District Attorney Louis G. Bruhn.

Earl Roy Decker, 24, of Poughkeepsie, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of unlawful entry. Imposition of sentence was postponed until Thursday morning at 10 a. m. Decker was represented by Attorney James G. Connelly.

James Robert Foster, 25, of New York, who had been indicted on charges of burglary, second degree, and unlawful entry, allegedly committed in this county on August 24, 1949, was arraigned before Judge Cashin, who assigned Hubert Richter to his defense. A formal plea of innocent was entered for Foster by Richter, and the case was adjourned until Thursday.

Here are the figures, according to Silkworth:

In 1945, there were 25,329,000 cows in the nation, producing about 121.5 billion pounds of milk. In 1950, the 22,779,000 cows in the country produced 120.6 billion pounds.

Protest Meeting Held to Press Closing of Dump

This gathering met in the backyard of Edward Demski's home, 72 Pine Grove avenue, Monday evening, to bring about closing of the city dump in the area of Summer, Valley and South Sterling streets, where they claimed its existence was a health and fire hazard. Plans were discussed by Attorney William Kaercher for procuring an injunction. Today Mayor Newkirk announced "no more rubbish or combustibles" would be unloaded and that a new city dump had been procured in the Devil's Lake section. (Freeman photo)

dumping area on Wednesday or Thursday of this week."

Demski had no comment this morning on the mayor's announcement.

He said that the meeting at his home had been well attended and that all were in favor of strong action, should it be necessary. He claimed also that interest in elimination of the dump, which he described as a "fire and health menace," extended beyond the immediate area, stating that petitions were being circulated throughout the city. Employes of the Fuller Shirt Company and the Skyline Manufacturing Company, both of Pine Grove avenue, are also circulating petitions to remove the dump.

"Many of the girls at these two plants have become ill as the result of stench and fumes from the dump," he declared.

Others Protest

He ventured the prediction that other business houses in the area would also back the move to eliminate the dumping ground. He said also that he expected a large representation at the next meeting of Common Council June 18, at which time residents of the area will seek action.

Attorney William Kaercher, who has been retained as counsel by complainant residents, said that support of persons who favor elimination of the dump was being sought and that the opposition was being organized.

"We will meet June 18 to petition the council," he said, "and if that doesn't bring relief we will then contemplate legal action."

For Accommodation

Mrs. William J. Soper of 287 West Chestnut street, who owns approximately three acres at the Sterling street dump, said that she was going to call the mayor this morning to request the city to cease dumping on her property.

"I haven't called the mayor yet but I have every intention of doing so," she said. She said that she had agreed originally to permit the city to use her property "as an accommodation" but that, under the circumstances, she felt that she must ask that its use be discontinued.

Fire Halts Service

New York, June 10 (AP)—A fire in the 59th street tunnel of the BMT subway system stopped service between Manhattan and Queens last night for 20 minutes, the board of transportation said. After the blaze was extinguished by board of transportation repair crews and emergency workers, a shuttle service between the Lexington avenue and Queens Plaza stations was started.

Newkirk and Kramer Attend Conference

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer left early this afternoon for Lake Placid where they will attend the New York State Conference of Mayors. They will return Friday.

Furious Storm Hits

the thermometer dropped from 85 to 70 degrees in 10 minutes and at Newark, N. J., from 90 to 70 degrees.

Within an average time of a half-hour—just 16 minutes in New York city proper—the storm had passed, and the temperatures started to rise again.

Killed in the storm were Conrad Bretheuer, 69, who was working on the roof of the General Theological Seminary when the winds suddenly swept him off the four-story building, and Gerard Tiede, 32, who was fishing off Long Island when the storm hit his small boat.

Shortly after the storm, 12-year-old Irving Paul Jackson, of Bay Shore, was electrocuted when he brushed against a live wire.

French Call for Protest

Paris, June 10 (AP)—French Communists called again today for mass protest against the jailing of their No. 1 leader, portly, bald Jacques Duclos. Duclos, in jail since his arrest at the height of the anti-Ridgway riots May 28, has been charged with plotting against the internal security of France.

Window Cleaner Killed

New York, June 10 (AP)—Americo N. Limitone, 27, of 328 East 145th street, the Bronx, a window cleaner, fell to his death from a 12th floor window of the Chrysler Building at 7:40 a. m. (EDT) today. It was the first such accident since the building was constructed 23 years ago, a spokesman said.

Steel Exports Halt

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The government today cut off all exports of steel by dealers for civilian use abroad. The order does not apply to exports to Canada, for which export licenses are not required.

Dolf Busch Dies

Guilford, Vt., June 10 (AP)—Dolf Busch, 60, widely-known violinist and founder of the Busch String Quartet, died unexpectedly of a heart ailment yesterday at his home.

Pennsylvania leads the United States in 50 major industries.

Truman Asks . . .

recommended should not prevent the government from changing wages and working conditions during the period of government operation.

Would Be Compelled

The government had planned to raise wages under the original seizure but was blocked from doing this by a Supreme Court order.

If Congress should authorize seizure but forbid a wage rise, Truman said, "the seizure would mean that workers would be compelled to work indefinitely without a change in wages, no matter how much such a change might be justified."

Since the owners of the property are entitled under the constitution to "just compensation," the President went on, a ban on wage raises for workers would be "obviously not equal justice under law."

Truman's request was laid down at a time when the Senate was already considering numerous proposals for dealing with the steel situation.

One of these is a move by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) for the Senate to request that Truman act under the Taft-Hartley Law and seek a court order against the strike.

In apparent reference to that, Truman said: "I want to make it very plain to the Congress that the result of using a Taft-Hartley type injunction in this dispute would be to take sides with the companies and against the workers."

Might Be Futile

He said too that he thought it might be "futile" in restoring production.

"Our national security depend upon our total economic strength, and steel is a basic element in that strength," Truman said.

"Consequently, we are faced with the imperative need for getting most, if not all, of the nation's steel mills back into production very promptly."

All radio and television networks carried the President's extraordinary address.

When the steel peace talks collapsed last night both the industry and the union said: "We have given assurance to our government that we will cooperate in assuring production of military requirements essential to our forces engaged in combatting Communist aggressors."

As a follow up to this the White House today called in top defense and production officials (1:30 p. m. EST) to discuss the arrangements for resuming enough steel production to meet "critical defense requirements."

Labor Union Picks Officers for Year

William Whitten of Accord was elected business agent of Local 17, International Hod Carriers and Laborers' Union, defeating by a small margin the local's present business agent, C. H. Mayer of Shavertown.

Ballots were cast by the membership at polls in Kingston, Newburgh and Roscoe on Sunday. The votes were tabulated Monday morning at the local's headquarters at 277 Fair street, Kingston.

Harvey Penick of 98 Emerick street, Kingston, was elected president of the local, succeeding Whitten in that post. Louis Bucholtz, of Hunter street, was elected vice-president.

Peter Manascalo of Newburgh was re-elected financial secretary and Louis Mastro of Rifton was elected sergeant-at-arms.

Douglas Hoffman of Kingston and Harold Ostrander of Newburgh were named assistant delegates. Trustees elected were Michael Delbono, Stephen Burns and Leonard Van Dyke. Elected to the executive board were John Miller, Howard Dunn and Frank Castiglione.

Smyth Is Acquitted

San Francisco, June 10 (AP)—James G. Smyth, third of the scandal riddled Internal Revenue Bureau's ousted collectors to be tried, was acquitted of backdating his own 1945 income tax returns to defraud the government. Two other ousted collectors—Dennis W. Delaney of Boston and James P Finnegan of St. Louis—were convicted earlier this year.

Eleven Persons Testify

Hudson, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—Eleven persons, including a New York city policeman, appeared under subpoena today to testify before the special grand jury delving into the numbers racket and other vice in Columbia county. Thomas Mason, chief assistant counsel for the state-ordered probe, said most of the witnesses were "numbers writers." Patrolman Emmett Howe of New York city, brother of the late Thomas V. Howe, a former Hudson police chief, was in the grand jury room for an hour. Mason would not disclose the nature of Howe's testimony. Other morning witnesses were Joseph Morabito, Mrs. Katherine Halleran and Everett Slunk, all of Hudson.

Miss Austen Dies

New York, June 10 (AP)—Miss Alice Austen, 86, one of the oldest amateur woman photographers in the United States, died yesterday of a heart ailment. Her ability with a camera rescued her from poverty at the age of 78, when she was homeless and penniless and confined to a wheel chair in the Staten Island poorhouse.

He ventured the prediction that other business houses in the area would also back the move to eliminate the dumping ground. He said also that he expected a large representation at the next meeting of Common Council June 18, at which time residents of the area will seek action.

Attorney William Kaercher, who has been retained as counsel by complainant residents, said that support of persons who favor elimination of the dump was being sought and that the opposition was being organized.

"We will meet June 18 to petition the council," he said, "and if that doesn't bring relief we will then contemplate legal action."

For Accommodation

Mrs. William J. Soper of 287 West Chestnut street, who owns approximately three acres at the Sterling street dump, said that she was going to call the mayor this morning to request the city to cease dumping on her property.

"I haven't called the mayor yet but I have every intention of doing so," she said. She said that she had agreed originally to permit the city to use her property "as an accommodation" but that, under the circumstances, she felt that she must ask that its use be discontinued.

Fire Halts Service

New York, June 10 (AP)—A fire in the 59th street tunnel of the BMT subway system stopped service between Manhattan and Queens last night for 20 minutes, the board of transportation said. After the blaze was extinguished by board of transportation repair crews and emergency workers, a shuttle service between the Lexington avenue and Queens Plaza stations was started.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and City Clerk Bernhardt S. Kramer left early this afternoon for Lake Placid where they will attend the New York State Conference of Mayors. They will return Friday.

Furious Storm Hits

the thermometer dropped from 85 to 70 degrees in 10 minutes and at Newark, N. J., from 90 to 70 degrees.

Within an average time of a half-hour—just 16 minutes in New York city proper—the storm had passed, and the temperatures started to rise again.

Killed in the storm were Conrad Bretheuer, 69, who was working on the roof of the General Theological Seminary when the winds suddenly swept him off the four-story building, and Gerard Tiede, 32, who was fishing off Long Island when the storm hit his small boat.

Shortly after the storm, 12-year-old Irving Paul Jackson, of Bay Shore, was electrocuted when he brushed against a live wire.

French Call for Protest

Paris, June 10 (AP)—French Communists called again today for mass protest against the jailing of their No. 1 leader, portly, bald Jacques Duclos. Duclos, in jail since his arrest at the height of the anti-Ridgway riots May 28, has been charged with plotting against the internal security of France.

Window Cleaner Killed

New York, June 10 (AP)—Americo N. Limitone, 27, of 328 East 145th street, the Bronx, a window cleaner, fell to his death from a 12th floor window of the Chrysler Building at 7:40 a. m. (EDT) today. It was the first such accident since the building was constructed 23 years ago, a spokesman said.

Steel Exports Halt

Washington, June 10 (AP)—The government today cut off all exports of steel by dealers for civilian use abroad. The order does not apply to exports to Canada, for which export licenses are not required.

Truman Asks . . .

recommended should not prevent the government from changing wages and working conditions during the period of government operation.

Would Be Compelled

The government had planned to raise wages under the original seizure but was blocked from doing this by a Supreme Court order.

If Congress should authorize seizure but forbid a wage rise, Truman said, "the seizure would mean that workers would be compelled to work indefinitely without a change in wages, no matter how much such a change might be justified."

Since the owners of the property are entitled under the constitution to "just compensation," the President went on, a ban on wage raises for workers would be "obviously not equal justice under law."

Truman's request was laid down at a time when the Senate was already considering numerous proposals for dealing with the steel situation.

One of these is a move by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) for the Senate to request that Truman act under the Taft-Hartley Law and seek a court order against the strike.

In apparent reference to that, Truman said: "I want to make it very plain to the Congress that the result of using a Taft-Hartley type injunction in this dispute would be to take sides with the companies and against the workers."

Might Be Futile

He said too that he thought it might be "futile" in restoring production.

"Our national security depend upon our total economic strength, and steel is a basic element in that strength," Truman said.

"Consequently, we are faced with the imperative need for getting most, if not all, of the nation's steel mills back into production very promptly."

All radio and television networks carried the President's extraordinary address.

When the steel peace talks collapsed last night both the industry and the union said: "We have given assurance to our government that we will cooperate in assuring production of military requirements essential to our forces engaged in combatting Communist aggressors."

As a follow up to this the White House today called in top defense and production officials (1:30 p. m. EST) to discuss the arrangements for resuming enough steel production to meet "critical defense requirements."

Labor Union Picks Officers for Year

William Whitten of Accord was elected business agent of Local 17, International Hod Carriers and Laborers' Union, defeating by a small margin the local's present business agent, C. H. Mayer of Shavertown.

Ballots were cast by the membership at polls in Kingston, Newburgh and Roscoe on Sunday. The votes were tabulated Monday morning at the local's headquarters at 277 Fair street, Kingston.

Harvey Penick of 98 Emerick street, Kingston, was elected president of the local, succeeding Whitten in that post. Louis Bucholtz, of Hunter street, was elected vice-president.

Peter Manascalo of Newburgh was re-elected financial secretary and Louis Mastro of Rifton was elected sergeant-at-arms.

Douglas Hoffman of Kingston and Harold Ostrander of Newburgh were named assistant delegates. Trustees elected were Michael Delbono, Stephen Burns and Leonard Van Dyke. Elected to the executive board were John Miller, Howard Dunn and Frank Castiglione.

Smyth Is Acquitted

San Francisco, June 10 (AP)—James G. Smyth, third of the scandal riddled Internal Revenue Bureau's ousted collectors to be tried, was acquitted of backdating his own 1945 income tax returns to defraud the government. Two other ousted collectors—Dennis W. Delaney of Boston and James P Finnegan of St. Louis—were convicted earlier this year.

Eleven Persons Testify

Hudson, N. Y., June 10 (AP)—Eleven persons, including a New York city policeman, appeared under subpoena today to testify before the special grand jury delving into the numbers racket and other vice in Columbia county. Thomas Mason, chief assistant counsel for the state-ordered probe, said most of the witnesses were "numbers writers." Patrolman Emmett Howe of New York city, brother of the late Thomas V. Howe, a former Hudson police chief, was in the grand jury room for an hour. Mason would not disclose the nature of Howe's testimony. Other morning witnesses were Joseph Morabito, Mrs. Katherine Halleran and Everett Slunk, all of Hudson.

Miss Austen Dies

Her ability with a camera rescued her from poverty at the age of 78, when she was homeless and penniless and confined to a wheel chair in the Staten Island poorhouse.
